“In holding scientific research and discovery in respect, as we should, we must also be alert to the equal and opposite danger that public policy could itself become the captive of a scientific-technological elite.” – President Eisenhower, 1961 Farewell Address

Science is certainly real. However, there is also pseudo-science (due to a conflict-of-interest) that is funded by billionaires and massive industries to reach conclusions that are highly profitable. Big Pharma, by far the biggest lobbyist in Washington, is the king of such pseudo-science.

“For the world at large, normalcy only returns when we've largely vaccinated the entire global population.” – Bill Gates, April, 2020

In a recent interview, Bill Gates when asked if investing in seven companies to make a vaccine for COVID-19 was a huge waste of money he replied, “What's a few billion dollars when we're talking trillions.”

“The four companies that make all... vaccines that are now mandated for American children are all convicted serial felons. They've paid $35 billion since 2005 in criminal penalties and damages for defrauding regulators, falsifying science, bribing and blackmailing doctors, and for killing hundreds of thousands of Americans.” – Robert F. Kennedy Jr.

“There is absolutely no need for vaccines to extinguish the pandemic... You do not vaccinate people who aren't at risk from a disease. You also don't set about planning to vaccinate millions of fit and healthy people with a vaccine that hasn't been extensively tested on human subjects.” – Dr. Mike Yeadon PhD, Pfizer's former Vice President and Chief Scientist for Allergy & Respiratory Disease

“Experience has shown that communities faced with epidemics or other adverse events respond best and with the least anxiety when the normal social functioning of the community is least disrupted.” – Dr. Donald Henderson, who led the eradication of smallpox

“Had the CDC used its industry standard, Medical Examiners' and Coroners' Handbook on Death Registration and Fetal Death Reporting Revision 2003, as it has for all other causes of death for the last 17 years, the COVID-19 fatality count would be approximately 90.2% lower than it currently is [as of July 12, 2020].” – H. Ealy, M. McEvoy, et al

“A conspiracy is nothing but a secret agreement of a number of men for the pursuance of policies which they dare not admit in public.” – Mark Twain

“I see how people have allowed their humanity to drain away... We harden our hearts...grow callous...only when we have to fight to stay human do we realize how precious it is.”
– Invasion of the Body Snatchers

“[W]hen I read the report in the mass magazine Welt, on January 31, that young people want to throw away the gift of life (“I don't want to live anymore,” said the child to his mother), I could no longer remain silent... Are we humans really incapable of overcoming our feelings of fear and our mental obedience reflex instilled in childhood — in order to protect the lives of our children and preserve the future of all of us?” – Dr. Rudolf Hänsel

Do You Believe In Corporate Mass Media?

In 2003, the mass media wanted us to believe “Weapons of Mass Destruction in Iraq are the greatest threat to humanity.” Now the mass media wants us to believe COVID-19 is the new greatest threat to humanity. Only this “threat” is considered so great that the World Economic Forum (economic arm of the UN) and other global voices declare we must completely reinvent our society to survive it, in what they call The Great Reset. (More on that later.)

Who turned the world upside-down on March 11, 2020, when the pandemic and lockdowns were declared? What coalition of powerful people? Or are the unprecedented mandates a reasonable response to a deadlier-than-usual and quick-spreading virus?

Whoever controls the narrative, controls the people. We’ve been spun to arguing about this covid thing by media owned by billionaires, big banks and corporations. Let’s come together in cooperation to heal our nation and the world situation.

Social media as well has led to this contentious hell where plenty of people are stuck in echo chambers. So many who were friends now act like strangers, increasing danger.

And there’s a “new normal” to conform to and obey. But is it really new? Or the same old slide toward total control by a select few?

It’s reasonable to take measures appropriate to the risk of a virus, such as occasional school closures during a flu season, basic sanitary precautions to prevent sickness, and protecting the vulnerable. But changing society by banning free assembly, destroying community, restricting human rights, and choosing to shutdown small- and medium-sized companies to create lucrative business opportunities for corporate giants goes profoundly too far. Yet a well-thought-out fear campaign has kept most people from connecting the dots of a major power grab and an unprecedented threat to civil society.

If the various mainstream media were truly concerned about public health, there would be frequent mention of ways to optimize immunity, like suggesting taking vitamin D3 (especially the most vulnerable) since studies show it greatly reduces both transmission of COVID-19 and the severity of symptoms. Why do the mass media rarely, if ever, report on vitamin D3 and similar inexpensive, safe, effective treatments? (More on that later.)

To justify the quarantine of healthy people — something that has never been done before — we were told there’s a new, rapidly-spreading, deadly virus. Mass media social engineering spins that tale hourly with covid alerts asserting, “We know what’s best for you.” But where’s the open public debate that is essential to democracy? Why are only a select few scientists and doctors allowed to speak on mass media, while many thousands of highly-esteemed scientists and doctors are prevented from presenting alternate viewpoints? Well-regarded medical doctors who question the official narrative are being threatened, have lost their jobs, and their careers have been destroyed. Why would the powers-that-be do that unless these independent scientists, who are not on Big Pharma’s payroll, are speaking the truth about what is happening?

Independent Science Speaks Out

A large number of eminent scientists and doctors point out that the case and death numbers are greatly exaggerated due to the use of the PCR test, which is known to have a very high false positive rate. (More on that later.) The media’s tale of a killer virus, with an ever-growing list of symptoms, focuses on rare, extreme cases, frightening video footage, hourly bombardment with death, hospitalization and “case” statistics, and comparisons with the Spanish flu, that make covid seem so terrifying we must do whatever possible to prevent its spread. However, any severe case of a respiratory illness can have serious complications including death, as tens of thousands of annual flu deaths in the USA demonstrate.

Even the CDC reports that COVID-19 Infection Survival Rates are:
Ages 0-19: 99.997%,
Ages 20-49: 99.98%,

Ages 50-69: 99.5%,
Ages 70+: 94.6%
Seasonal Flu Infection Survival Rate
(all ages combined): 99.9%

For comparison with covid, on average 1.6 million people die worldwide every year of tuberculosis, which is a highly transmissible upper respiratory infection. Why aren't we wearing masks and locking down society for that? Could it be because a vaccine already exists that only costs $3 a shot?

The suppression of inexpensive, proven successful therapies for COVID-19, along with the aggressive marketing campaign to get the world in line for Big Pharma's vaccine, show that foul play is afoot. Doctors have had great success with: high-dose intravenous vitamin C, quercetin-based protocols, the MATH+ protocol and nebulized hydrogen peroxide (see mercola.com for all the above). FDA-approved Ivermectin, a medication known for over 60 years, has been successfully applied in Southern Peru, in Argentina and elsewhere to treat COVID-19. But that eliminates the "need" for global vaccination, so the mass media won't be reporting that. We're talking trillions of dollars on the line here.

Since data show the all-cause mortality during 2020 doesn't veer from the norm, COVID-19 has not killed off more of the population than would usually die. That seems curious for a pandemic.

Further evidence that the threat from covid has been exaggerated was presented by Reiner Fuellmich of the German Corona Investigative Committee this October:

A number of highly-renowned scientists assume that there is no disease beyond the gravity of the seasonal flu, that the population had already acquired cross- or T-cell immunity against this allegedly new virus, and that there was therefore no reason for any special measures, and certainly not for vaccinations.

These scientists include Professor John Ioannidis of Stanford University in California, a specialist in statistics and epidemiology, as well as public health, and... the most quoted scientist in the world; Professor Michael Levitt, Nobel prize-winner for chemistry and also a biophysicist at Stanford University; the German professors Kary Mölling, Sucharit Bhakti, Klud Wittkowski, as well as Stefan Homburg; and now many, many more scientists and doctors worldwide, including Dr. Mike Yeadon, the former Vice-President and Scientific Director of Pfizer, one of the largest pharmaceutical companies in the world.

The health care systems were never in danger of becoming overwhelmed by Covid-19. On the contrary, many hospitals remain empty to this day and some are now facing bankruptcy. The hospital ship Comfort, which anchored in New York at the [beginning of the pandemic], and could have accommodated a thousand patients, never accommodated more than some 20 patients. Nowhere was there any excess mortality. Studies carried out by Professor Ioannidis and others have shown that the mortality of corona is equivalent to that of the seasonal flu.

Then, the so-called "Panic Paper" was leaked, which was written by the German Department of the Interior. Its classified content shows beyond a shadow of a doubt that, in fact, the population was deliberately driven to panic by politicians and mainstream media. The accompanying irresponsible statements of the Head of the RKI – the [German] CDC – Mr. Wieler, who repeatedly and excitedly announced that the corona measures must be followed unconditionally by the population without them asking any question, shows that that he followed the script verbatim. In his public statements, he kept announcing that the situation was very grave and threatening, although the figures compiled by his own Institute proved the exact opposite.

Among other things, the “Panic Paper” calls for children to be made to feel responsible – and I quote – “for the painful tortured death of their parents and grandparents if they do not follow the corona rules”, that is, if they do not wash their hands constantly and don’t stay away from their grandparents.

A word of clarification: in Bergamo, the vast majority of deaths, 94% to be exact, turned out to be the result not of Covid-19, but rather the consequence of the government deciding to transfer sick patients, sick with probably the cold or seasonal flu, from hospitals to nursing homes in order to make room at the hospitals for all the Covid patients, who ultimately never arrived. There, at the nursing homes, they then infected old people with a severely weakened immune system, usually as a result of pre-existing medical conditions. In addition, a flu vaccination, which had previously been administered, had further weakened the immune systems of the people in the nursing homes.

In New York, only some, but by far not all hospitals were overwhelmed. Many people, most of whom were again elderly and had serious pre-existing medical conditions, and most of whom, had it not been for the panic-mongering, would have just stayed at home to recover, raced to the hospitals. There, many of them fell victim to healthcare-associated infections on the one hand, and incidents of malpractice on the other hand, for example, by being put on a respirator rather than receiving oxygen through an oxygen mask.

Again, to clarify: Covid-19... is a dangerous disease, just like the seasonal flu is a dangerous disease. And of course, Covid-19, just like the seasonal flu, may sometimes take a severe clinical course and will sometimes kill patients.

However, as autopsies have shown, which were carried out in Germany in particular, by the forensic scientist Professor Klaus Püschel in Hamburg, the fatalities he examined had almost all been caused by serious pre-existing conditions, and almost all of the people who had died had died at a very old age, just like in Italy, meaning they had lived beyond their average life expectancy.

...the German RKI... equivalent of the CDC – had initially, strangely enough, recommended that no autopsies be performed. And there are numerous credible reports that doctors and hospitals worldwide had been paid money for declaring a deceased person a victim of Covid-19 rather than writing down the true cause of death on the death certificate, for example a heart attack or a gunshot wound. Without the autopsies, we would never know that the overwhelming majority of the alleged Covid-19 victims had died of completely different diseases, but not of Covid-19.

Yet to disagree with covid rules is called the mark of crazy fools who simply don’t care since they’re deluded. But most have studied evidence and concluded someone colluded. Corruption is running wild.

Here’s a brief history lesson on how public health was co-opted by private interests.

The Rise of Big Pharma

About 120 years ago, at the turn of the century, nearly half of the doctors and medical colleges in the USA were practicing medicine based on good nutrition, herbs and other natural substances. When robber baron John D. Rockefeller, the USA’s first billionaire (thanks to his oil monopoly), heard that scientists discovered a way to make all kinds of chemicals out of oil, including drugs, he leapt at the chance to expand his oil monopoly to the chemical and medical industries.

While it’s not legal to patent a natural substance, petrochemicals created by science can be patented and sold for very high profits.

To capture the market however, Rockefeller had to eliminate the natural medicine competition. So he went to fellow plutocrat Andrew Carnegie (who had monopolized the steel industry) to come up with a plan. Using the old “problem-reaction-solution” formula they sent Abraham Flexner (of the prestigious Carnegie Foundation) to visit and report on the condition of medical colleges and hospitals across the USA. The slanderous Flexner Report that Abraham wrote destroyed support for natural medicine, and opened the way for medicine based on the pharmaceutical model of symptom suppression with drugs to become the prime medical model of the Western world. Soon after the report was published, over half of all medical colleges in the USA closed. The book’s ridicule and demonization of homeopathy and other natural medicines was so effective that some doctors were even jailed.

To sweeten the pot, Rockefeller gave over $100 million to colleges and hospitals, and founded a philanthropic front group called the “General Education Board.” It wasn’t long before nearly all medical students were learning that it’s all about using patented drugs. Large grants were given to scientists to study how plants cure disease so they could then slightly alter effective plant compounds, turning them into patentable drugs in the lab. (In 1913, Rockefeller founded the American Cancer Society.)

Controlling World Health Systems

To actually pull off a worldwide lockdown, a unified approach to world health is required. In 1948, the Rockefeller Foundation, after donating land for the UN’s headquarters in New York, created and gave the original funding for the World Health Organization (WHO, the health arm of the UN). Since then, the Rockefeller Foundation has had more impact on global public health than any other organization.

And then, of course, there’s Bill Gates. Curiously, the prestigious New England Journal of Medicine (NEJM) has given Gates space in their highly-regarded periodical, and he has delivered keynotes at the organization’s conferences, even though he has no medical credentials and has never published a scientific paper. Perhaps it has something to do with author and NEJM Deputy Editor, Lindsey Baden, who has received grants from the Gates Foundation and NIH/NIAID. Of course, the grants are for “vaccine development.”

Gates is the biggest donor (through multiple channels) to the World Health Organization (WHO), whose declarations descend to the CDC and its counterparts around the world, then to political figures who are letting a few unelected “public health experts” dictate public policy.

And now we approach the turning point of possible mass forced vaccination, or perhaps mass made-too-inconvenient-to-refuse vaccination. Governments like the UK’s Boris Johnson and Australia’s Scott Morrison, have already proposed a possible vaccination-pass. Without it you would be banned from flying and from attending large public events.

In several countries, particularly in Europe, this “health dictatorship” has become a Health Martial Law. Rules and regulations are issued by the WHO and supported by the entire UN system. Many countries have quietly ratified, or rushed through the legislature, without public notice, laws allowing them to switch from everyday life to an emergency situation. In Greece one must text the government for permission to leave home. And in Italy breaking a red zone quarantine can lead to six years in prison.

In Germany, the Infection Protection Act became law on November 18, 2020. This law grants the government authority to issue any edict it wishes in the name of protecting public health.

The German government has been doing this already — ordering lockdowns, curfews, banning travel and demonstrations, raiding homes and businesses, ordering everyone to wear medical masks, harassing and arresting dissidents, and so on. But now it has been declared the “legitimate” law of the land.

While the Infection Protection Act, which was rushed through the parliament, may sound very similar to the Enabling Act of 1933, which granted Hitler a free hand in governing

Germany, the government and the German media, insist there is absolutely no equivalence whatsoever. And they are correct, of course. The 2020 version legalizes all government decrees under the cover of “protecting the public health.” The 1933 Act legalized all government decrees under the cover of “remedying the distress of the people.” The two acts clearly use completely different cover stories. Anyone who says the acts are similar is given new names by the German media like “corona denier,” “far-right extremist,” “neo-Nazi,” “conspiracy theorist,” or “anti-vaxxer.”

“Corona deniers” are considered a problem because they are walking around without medical-looking masks, making a mockery of the government and media efforts to convince the public that an apocalyptic plague is on the loose. They even have the nerve to post scientific facts online.

The large protests and other challenges to the government’s “right” to declare a “health emergency,” suspend the German constitution indefinitely, and rule society by decree and force are most inconvenient.

Efforts to demonize these “deniers” have not slowed the growing rejection of the official “New Normal” narrative all across Europe. And so, the Infection Protection Act was evoked to provide the government the authority required to implement um... a solution.

But what do the government’s actions have to do with public health? What is the real agenda behind this?

It’s astounding that 190 (out of 193) UN member countries (all except Nicaragua, Sweden and Belarus) submitted to a tyranny that has nearly destroyed the world economy, causing countless bankruptcies, unemployment, poverty, misery and death. And now they want to vaccinate everyone with an experimental vaccine that was fast-tracked at warp speed, and only given emergency authorization.

How was it possible for anyone to pull off these crimes against humanity? To answer that question, let’s have a look at the 20-year money trail that completed the creation of the world-spanning, drug- and vaccine-based, corporate medical system.

The Great Global Vaccine Money Trail

When investigators are solving a crime, they follow the money, and look for motive, means and opportunity.

The desire to rule the entire world, to have absolute power over all the Earth, has long been the central motivation for those at the top. Since they have a monopoly on the creation of money, they simply create it. But power over everyone requires the compliance of the ruled.

The world’s billionaires certainly have the means to buy, bribe or bully the big three: pharma, tech and mass media, along with the regulatory agencies.

That leaves opportunity. Is there a trail of evidence pointing to a plan to create the alliances and infrastructure needed to pull off such a complex operation?

Fifty years after the “Global Health” monolith was established under the WHO’s umbrella, COVID-19 Czar, Bill Gates, entered the scene. Gates has been funding the planning, manufacturing, testing, vaccination, tracing, tracking, chipping, the WHO and the media. Some call this philanthropy.

In 2000, Bill Gates initiated the Global Alliance for Vaccines and Immunization (GAVI). That’s UNICEF, the World Bank, the WHO, and the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation making a commitment to create, as their mission statement says, “healthy vaccine markets.” It’s a 20-1 return to invest in vaccination, says Bill with elation.

Gates, who has been obsessed with vaccinating the world for decades, although he has no medical training, got to choose the WHO’s Director General, Dr. Tedros Adhanom Ghebreyesus, a buddy of Gates and former Board Member of GAVI. So the WHO’s health policies are based on vaccination.

A few years before covid appeared there were two more times when the WHO spread fear, and Big Pharma sales are key to both, it's clear.

In late September 2005, Dr. Fauci declared that the U.S. should buy over 100 million vaccine doses to stop the dreaded bird flu. Nine days later, the head of the WHO said there will be up to 150 million dead from bird flu. Many governments freaked out and began to stockpile antiviral drugs and vaccines. Then Neil Ferguson jumped in the ring, the man who's big numbers covid lockdown did bring, saying "probably 200,000,000 will die." But the bird flu only killed 282 worldwide. Seems they all lied.

Over the next few years, nations from Europe and Africa signed "sleeping contracts" with the WHO to buy vaccines. The contracts were designed to become active whenever the WHO declared a pandemic.

Then on April 4th, 2009, the WHO announced a flu called swine. On their website a month later they changed the definition of pandemic by making the omission of two conditions. They kept the new virus which humans have no immunity to, but decided that several epidemics and high death numbers are no longer necessary for a pandemic. You won't believe the answer they gave when asked the reason for the change. The WHO called the old definition "a rather bleak picture" that "could be very scary." Wow, I guess they really do care about us.

The new definition allowed the WHO, on June 11, 2009, to declare that flu called swine to be a pandemic with only 144 deaths worldwide. This triggered all the sleeping contracts they signed, kicking vaccine production into overdrive to the tune of $18 billion.

You've probably guessed by now that few were killed by that big bad swine flu. The Parliamentary Assembly of the Council of Europe called both the bird flu and the swine flu fake pandemics, since pharmaceutical companies were on the take, and their allies hyped up the outbreak.

But in January 2010, that didn't stop Bill Gates from going to the UN and declaring a "decade of vaccines" to prepare for new pandemics down the road, and promised to give the WHO $10 billion to fund it. He tapped Dr. Fauci to help launch the project.

In May 2010, the Rockefeller Foundation published Scenarios for the Future of Technology and International Development which includes a scenario about a really nasty pandemic, with lockdowns, mandatory masking, economic destruction of small- and medium-sized businesses, and biometric IDs for all that is eerily similar to covid world.

In December 2010, UNICEF, the WHO, Dr. Fauci's NIAID, and the Gates Foundation too, announced the Decade of Vaccines Collaboration, to make the Global Vaccine Action Plan a fixation of every nation.

In September 2012, several groups began "The Better Than Cash Alliance" plan to more quickly trash cash for digital action, so that governments can track and tax every transaction and punish infractions by instantly charging a fee.

Late January, 2017, the World Economic Forum (WEF) — which describes itself as "the global platform for public-private cooperation" that "engages the foremost political, business, cultural and other leaders of society to shape global, regional and industry agendas" — convened to found the Coalition for Epidemic Preparedness Innovations (CEPI) with the Gates Foundation and others. The purpose? To develop vaccines to stop future virus invasions. There seems to be a pattern here.

A few weeks later India cut all ties with the Gates Foundation. Guess what? His polio vaccine caused nearly half a million cases of childhood paralysis, so they were done. And told Bill Gates to run. November, 2017, Seth Berkley (board member of ID2020) in Nature magazine, wrote that we need digital tracking of children so they all have a "legal identity by 2030."

A report was published in late January 2018 about the "Known Traveler Digital Identity" by the World Economic Forum. It said when people share more data, they will receive a better travel guarantee for a smoother and safer ride.

Two days later at the WEF annual meeting, ID2020, World Bank, Visa, Microsoft and many more kept repeating everyone needs a “digital identity” stored in access systems that truly are key to our “digital future, especially... those without formal ID.”

In May 2018, WEF and the Johns Hopkins Center of Health Security coordinated a “table-top exercise” with the bizzaro name CLADE X. They simulated “a series of U.S. National Security Council meetings” responding to an “evolving pandemic” involving a novel respiratory virus (CLADE X) modeled on SARS (CoV) and H1N1 (Influenza) with the lethality of SARS but contagious as flu.

In September 2018, at the Global Vaccination Summit, the European Commission and the WHO committed to “vaccination for all” and expressed concern over vaccine shortages and low public faith in vaccination, plus so much dangerous misinformation.

Then Event 201, a second pandemic exercise arrived on October 18, 2019, organized by the Johns Hopkins Center for Health Security, WEF and the Gates Foundation to simulate an outbreak situation, of a different novel SARS corona infection, one that came from animals. Another difference is this one was much more transmissible by mild cases and the asymptomatic. The stated purpose of the event was to show that public-private partnerships were needed to slow “catastrophic loss of lives and economic destruction.” They said in this “new normal,” misinformation may require extreme measures of persuasion. The video of this pandemic scenario rehearsal shows detailed planning for global lockdowns, economic collapse, food shortages, civil unrest and government overreach.

In November 2019, the media promoted a new study in the journal Vaccine about “anti-vaccine” groups using Facebook ads to supposedly spread “misinformation.” The study’s lack of any evidence to support the accusation was not mentioned in the media frenzy.

Instead, the study’s authors defined all information contrary to the government’s goal of maintaining or boosting vaccination rates as “anti-vaccine” which they equated with “misinformation” — with no consideration of scientific validity.

In China, on December 1st, 2019, the “Law on Vaccine Administration” hit the scene, declaring everyone living in China must be vaccinated. Parents or guardians of children, it also stated, must have their kids vaccinated. And all of it will be tracked.

A couple weeks later, out of MIT came word of a new way to record vaccination history, with smartphone-readable nano-crystals called quantum dots that penetrate and embed within your skin through tiny needles. This unusual project was funded and directly requested by none other than Bill Gates.

On March 11, 2020, the World Economic Forum announced a partnership with the World Health Organization (both of the UN) to launch a coalition of over 200 of the world’s most powerful corporations called the COVID Action Platform.

And on the same day, March 11th, with only 18,000 confirmed cases (most of which were “confirmed” by the PCR test, which cannot detect or identify a complete virus) and 4291 deaths worldwide, the WHO’s director declared, “We have therefore made the assessment that covid-19 can be characterized as a pandemic.” Not “is a pandemic.” Perhaps a reference to their new definition of pandemic.

It’s also interesting to note, the day before the WHO declared its “vote,” its partner the Covid-19 Therapeutics Accelerator got $125 million commitments to forget-me-not, from the Gates Foundation and MasterCard. What?

Riding on the WHO’s announcement, the campaign of fear went into high gear. Lockdown instructions were sent to all 193 member states of the United Nations (only Sweden, Belarus and Nicaragua refused to follow them).

Four days after the WHO spoke, Neil Ferguson, of the Imperial College in London, predicted that deaths could number in the millions. The same month the Imperial College received $79 million from the Gates Foundation. Maybe he meant “dollars” instead of “deaths.”

The next day social media platforms cried information war. Microsoft, Google, YouTube, Facebook and more, in a joint statement declared quite firmly that “we are combating fraud and misinformation about the virus” by “elevating only content of authority.” Another new definition, this time of “ censorship,” to deceptively destroy free speech (a central feature of fascism), instead of allowing the open debate that makes a democracy work.

Three days later, the WHO guideline “Implementation of Global Surveillance of COVID-19,” defined “confirmed case,” as “laboratory confirmation,” no matter what the “clinical signs and symptoms.” Another new definition used to confuse.

On March 26, 2020, there was a patent granted to Microsoft for a microchip app to implant under our skin that tracks human body activity they can store in their data bin. PC Magazine reported, “the human user would need to have a sensor attached to, or installed in, their body. Microsoft envisages users being rewarded for allowing their bodies to be monitored in this way by paying them in cryptocurrency for performing specific tasks.” Brain waves, heat, body fluid flow, organ activity and movement would be tracked during various activities. They would text your cell with a task to do and monitor you.

Also on March 26, 2020, while 87% of the students in the world were closed out of school, the Global Education Coalition was announced to accelerate a transition to digitalized education. Founding partners include Microsoft, Google, Facebook, the BBC, IBM, the Johns Hopkins Institute for Education Policy, and the Global Business Coalition for Education. This is the creation of a new class of assets, using children as data commodities. This emerging market, disguised as a Sustainable Development Goal (presided over by the World Economic Forum) is built on data gathered from surveillance of children to create human capital assets.

As Ellen Brown, president of the Public Banking Institute, wrote in Meet BlackRock, The New Great Vampire Squid:

[A] multi-trillion dollar bailout/wealth transfer to financial asset management corporations was sanctioned in the U.S. in April 2020. This significant bailout event gained little media coverage in comparison to the coverage of the Coronavirus situation.

Acknowledging that central bankers were running out of ammunition for controlling the money supply and the economy, the BlackRock group argued that it was time for the central bank to abandon its long-vaunted independence and join monetary policy (the usual province of the central bank) with fiscal policy (the usual province of the legislature). They proposed that the central bank maintain a “Standing Emergency Fiscal Facility” that would be activated when interest rate manipulation was no longer working to avoid deflation. The Facility would be deployed by an “independent expert” appointed by the central bank.

The COVID-19 crisis is presented as the perfect opportunity to execute this proposal in the US, with BlackRock itself appointed to administer it. In March 2020, it was awarded a no-bid contract under the Coronavirus Aid, Relief, and Economic Security Act (CARES Act) to deploy a $454 billion slush fund established by the Treasury in partnership with the Federal Reserve. This fund in turn could be leveraged to provide over $4 trillion in Federal Reserve credit. While the public was distracted with protests, riots and lockdowns, BlackRock suddenly emerged from the shadows to become the “fourth branch of government,” managing the controls to the central bank’s print-on-demand fiat money.

On April 1st, 2020, the WHO published Immunization Agenda 2030: A Global Strategy to Leave No One Behind. Also in April, the European Union passed the Pandemic Accelerator Act which gives vaccine makers a free pass for safety.

On July 15th, the European Parliament agreed to remove the need to do a risk evaluation as required under GMO regulations. There were no science reports, no hearings, and no debate.

How did Gates get away with this massive deception? Because Bill's got the mainstream press in his pocket. A Columbia Journalism Review exposé had a field day revealing the millions Bill paid to keep bad press away, and his image A-Okay.

The exposé revealed that Gates has given over $250 million to various industries, organizations and companies in media: the BBC, NBC, the Atlantic, Al Jazeera, ProPublica, the National Journal, the Guardian, Univision, Medium, the PBS NewsHour, the Financial Times, the Center for Investigative Reporting, Washington Monthly, Le Monde, and more, helping him rise to his global position.

Journalist organizations, scientific journals and magazines get big grants from Bill Gates to advance his big dream. And experts are coached, to write what helps Bill the most, for outlets like the New York Times and HuffPost. His press bribes have paid off big time, these bought news media treat Bill so sublime, like he's a public health expert, though he's not. While his army of fact checkers keep restraining all disdaining of his agenda.

What's Up with the PCR Test?

Returning to covid, officials say you'd better get your flu vaccine, but several studies show that will prime you to get covid or another respiratory infection. Where do their interests lie?

We're often told "confirmed cases" are rising, and this means there will be more deaths, But how is a case confirmed? Cases of covid are confirmed strictly by positive results on a covid test.

The most used test is the PCR, short for Polymerase Chain Reaction. Its inventor Kary

Mullis insisted that PCR is not for diagnosis, but instead is a technique to replicate RNA sequences for research. Even the leaflets that come with the test say it's not to be used for diagnosis. The PCR test cannot determine if someone has an infection, because it can't distinguish between a virus particle and a complete virus. Since it only matches tiny pieces of a virus, the test cannot determine if the infection is hot (active and transmissible) as only a complete virus can penetrate a cell and replicate. The PCR is also incapable of determining viral load.

The other issue with the PCR test is that most of the tests are too sensitive, so they generate a very high percentage of false positives. The swab sample includes RNA, which is reverse transcribed into DNA. The genetic snippets are so small, they must be amplified (replicated) sufficiently to be detected. Each replication is called a cycle, and the number of amplification cycles used in a PCR test is the cycle threshold (Ct).

On the July 16, 2020 podcast "This Week in Virology," even Dr. Fauci admitted, "If you get a cycle threshold of 35 or more ... the chances of it being replication-confident are minuscule ... You almost never can culture a virus from a 37 threshold cycle ... even 36 ..."

In other words, with a test using a Ct above 35 (some say above 30), even insignificant sequences of viral DNA become noticeable (but are not a complete virus that can be cultured), so the test often reads positive even when the virus is not a threat of infection to anyone.

Yet the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) and the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) recommend using a Ct of 40, and tests recommended by the World Health Organization (WHO) use a Ct of 45. That's a clear case of fraud. Curiously, when the majority of labs worldwide present case results, they don't mention the Ct value.

Even the CDC wrote in one of its publications about the PCR test, dated July 13, 2020: "Detection of viral RNA may not indicate the presence of infectious viruses or that 2019 nCOV is the causative agent for clinical symptoms... This test cannot rule out diseases caused by other bacterial or viral pathogens.” Meanwhile, the mass media calls PCR a good diagnostic tool. The only other tests available commercially in the USA are the rapid antigen and antibody test, which also render many false results. All three were approved by the FDA under emergency use authorizations, and so have not undergone full screening and approval. But Congress approved $25 billion for covid testing, so on it goes.

If testing for covid continues to use faulty methods with lots of false positives, the media would have growing cases to report on forever. That’s why many scientists call this a “PCR-test pandemic.”

Fortunately, in Portugal, a court ruled it illegal to force four German tourists into quarantine based on a PCR test — which can give up to 97% false positives. And Finland has decided not to test healthy people, because of the false positive concern.

Why a New Definition for “Case?”

In medicine, a “case” has always referred to someone with symptoms of illness, a sick person. But suddenly, the term has been redefined to mean someone who had a “positive” PCR test result, symptoms or not. Medicine has always begun with an examination of the person, looking for symptoms. Based on scientific knowledge and experience, the doctor may then prescribe an appropriate test. Now “health safety experts” are telling doctors to do the opposite and put the test first. This dangerous practice is the opposite of what quality medicine would do, even in a pandemic. Why are we testing people with no symptoms anyway?

And yet these meaningless, vastly exaggerated case counts are used to justify lockdowns and other restrictions on people’s freedom. It’s massive fraud being played on billions of people worldwide to perpetuate fear of the virus. Why? In addition to enormous profits for Big Pharma, a fearful, weary and angry population is more open to giving up their freedoms to greater centralized power and control when it is colored as “for the common good.”

To Mask or Not to Mask

Dr. James Meehan reports, “I’m seeing patients that have facial rashes, fungal infections, and bacterial infections. ... In February and March we were told not to wear masks. What changed? The science didn’t change. The politics did. This is about compliance. It’s not about science.”

Randomized control trials (RCTs) with verified outcomes are the gold standard of scientific studies. That means, in this case, testing mask effectiveness in preventing the spread of infection against a control group to see if they actually work.

Then beginning in May, 2020, it was abruptly decided that those decades of studies were invalid. Suddenly, health experts with government authorization began recommending that people “mask up” to save lives, since “we have the science,” or as Dr. Fauci said, “the science speaks for itself,” without saying what the science says. However, none of the studies that show reduction of spread were randomized control studies. They used observational study methods (like statistical correlations and computer modeling) that are speculation-based and easily tainted by bias.

That’s curious, because a May 2020 study (https://wwwnc.cdc.gov/eid/article/26/5/19-0994_article) posted on the CDC’s website, published in Emerging Infectious Diseases systematically reviewed 10 RCTs on mask effectiveness from 1946-2018:

“In pooled analysis, we found no significant reduction in influenza transmission with the use of face masks...either when worn by the infected person for source control or when worn by uninfected persons to reduce exposure...Proper use of face masks is essential because improper use might increase the risk of transmission.”

A recent Danish study of 6,024 people (of them, 80.7% completed the study) confirmed the ineffectiveness of wearing a mask. The so-called “Danmask-19 Trial,” was published November 18, 2020 in the Annals of Internal Medicine. This was the first randomized controlled trial to assess the effectiveness of surgical face masks against COVID-19 infection specifically, and found that masks made no statistically significant difference in reducing the spread of infection. And a recent study of nearly 2000 US marines under very strict lockdown came to the same conclusion.

Why don't even N95 masks stop viral infection? Because viruses are even tinier than the tiny pores present in all masks. The rigorous 2008 U.K. study conducted by the Health Safety Executive discovered that huge amounts of viruses, which travel as an aerosol, easily penetrate all types of medical masks. And this was in a controlled environment under optimal conditions with properly worn, fitted masks. Numerous other studies found the same result.

Many employees who have to wear a mask all day complain of headaches and fatigue, which are symptoms of oxygen deprivation. Depriving ourselves of oxygen damages our brain and weakens our internal organs and immune system. The harmful impact of wearing masks for extended periods of time on health, and mental and emotional development in young children is especially disturbing.

If public health does not benefit from masking, perhaps they are intended to isolate and divide we the people into opposing camps, and to promote a sense of fear. The argument that it's selfish not to wear one, and the insistence that it will save many lives is seeking to establish that such mandates are legal and moral, which they are not. Public health "experts" keep saying that we the people are to blame for rising cases and deaths because we're not doing everything the public health "experts" are telling us to do. I'm sure it has nothing to do with massive false positive test results.

And then there's the question of excess mortality. Curiously, for a pandemic year, fewer people have died in the USA this year than the 2.8 million national average.

It's Not Unusual for Hospitals to Be Overcrowded

Over a year before the "pandemic" arrived in Canada, on January 22, 2019, CBS News wrote:

Overcrowding has become so common in Ontario hospitals that patient beds are now placed in hallways and conference rooms not only at times of peak demand, but routinely day after day...

An exclusive analysis of the data by CBC News shows that hospital gridlock — a phenomenon that used to be restricted to surges in patients during flu season — is the new normal.

Interesting that they used the COVID term "new normal" back then.

A year before that, January 18, 2018, Time Magazine wrote in "Hospitals Overwhelmed by Flu Patients Are Treating Them in Tents":

The 2017-2018 influenza epidemic is sending people to hospitals and urgent-care centers in every state, and medical centers are responding with extraordinary measures: asking staff to work overtime, setting up triage tents, restricting friends and family visits and canceling elective surgeries, to name a few.

But no one proposed the criminal remedy that healthy people stay home.

A week before that in a January 11, 2018 article in University of Alabama News:

UAB Hospital Emergency, Critical Care, Ambulatory and Prime Care services have experienced a 50 percent increase in seasonal influenza cases in the past 72 hours alone. These events led Alabama Gov. Kay Ivey to issue a State of Emergency this evening.

And on January 16, 2018, the LA Times reported:

California hospitals face a 'war zone' of flu patients — and are setting up tents to treat them...

Hospitals across the state are sending away ambulances, flying in nurses from out of state and not letting children visit their loved ones for fear they'll spread the flu. Others are canceling surgeries and erecting tents in their parking lots so they can triage the hordes of flu patients.

Two-and-a-half months earlier, on November 1, 2017, France 24 reported:

French hospitals cancel operations amid brutal flu epidemic...

"Emergency rooms are at breaking point," François Braun, head of France's Samu-Urgences de France ambulance group, told AFP on Wednesday. "All regions of France are affected."

But no masks and such were mandated, and there are many more examples.

Social Determinates of Health

Asymptomatic spread and exaggerated lethality of the virus are the two lies used to weaponize germ theory by frightening people into a "post-covid world" where masking-up, distancing, and so on would be normal and vaccination for the ever-mutating COVID-19 virus would be required for living free.

And yet 75% of our health status comes from social determinants of health. First is having an income to acquire essentials and access to freedom. Next is social connections, the more we have, the longer and healthier we are. People in connected communities help each other out. Hugs release pleasure-inducing oxytocin and lower cortisol levels, reducing stress and increasing immunity.

Instead children are being told they can't touch each other or they might kill grandma. No wonder mental health issues with children are way up. Many children are giving up and getting depressed because they have no social support from friends that makes life worth living. So many young lives are being ruined. Many are losing emotional responsiveness due to the lack of good old friendly conversations. Isolation and confinement lead to permanent brain changes that can manifest in mental illness, even psychosis and self-destruction.

Research shows that if you wish to make people permanently insane, you lock them up away from other humans. It also increases dementia and lowers immunity.

Sadly, primary healthcare is shifting toward telemedicine (over the phone or on a digital platform) for obvious reasons. However, nothing can replace human touch and face-to-face contact. Laying hands on the patient is crucial to good medical practice.

Lockdowns: Inconvenient or Deadly?

Before the covid coup, worldwide lockdowns that destroy businesses and the economy, leaving people destitute and stripped of their constitutional rights, trying to enact invasive contact tracing, immunity passports, and bio-electronic surveillance would never have been accepted by the people of a free society.

The last nine months have seen these things come to pass, devastating the world economy to the core. According to the International Labor Office, possibly up to 2.9 billion people, about half of the world's work force, are now out of work. In the Global South, poverty and misery are everywhere, and it is spreading in the ever-growing city slums of the Global North.

Those who get their information from the corporate mass media are likely not aware of the fact that covid mandates are not laws, and are legally unenforceable. Yet because of those mandates, over 70 million Americans have filed unemployment claims in 2020, more than 40 million may be facing eviction in 2021, and suicides have gone up dramatically during the pandemic, to mention only some of the harm caused by the shutdowns.

After months of nonstop fearmongering on mass media, the unprecedented policy of lockdowns for the healthy is still justified by saying "follow the science." However an open public debate by scientists on both sides, and an honest assessment of the pros and cons of such a severe mandate has yet to occur. "Public health officials" worldwide are strongly "recommending" these policies to politicians in an unprecedented power grab.

Lockdowns are super-spreaders of massive fear and anxiety that have already caused profound disruption of our lives, unlike anything that has ever been seen: destroyed economies, massive unemployment, mental and physical health problems, restricted fundamental freedoms, many families near the end of their savings, many others that have become homeless, tens of millions have lost their jobs, millions of small and medium-sized businesses are closed for good, many corporations have gone bankrupt, supply chains have been disrupted, many deaths due to non-covid diseases have been left undiagnosed or untreated; massive disruption of education; countless precious life-moments lost; traumatic birth experiences; increased domestic abuse; people living out their last few months in isolation and misery, disruption of the social and emotional development of our children, reduced life-opportunities for young people with an ever-growing mountain of debt, suspension of much of what makes us human and gives our lives meaning, and many deaths due to the impact of stress, joblessness and poverty on people's health.

In countries around the globe, tax revenues have collapsed, and public debt is soaring. Closing the planet's economy has unleashed a vast deepening of the already worldwide debt crisis. Several developing nations are experiencing famines. The middle class, already shrinking, has taken a massive hit. Black households have been hit the hardest, and Hispanics the next. A Northwestern University report states that food insecurity now affects about one in four households in the USA. And yet, while the real economy burns, the narrow concentration of wealth in the hands of several billionaires skyrocketed as our jobs disappeared this year. Billionaire bucks increased by $850 billion since March 18th, 2020, a jump of over 28 percent.

Post-traumatic stress disorder is showing up in many children who have been cut off from vital community resources of protection like churches, recreation, and school. The shift to remote learning has increased children's online time nearly 500% to about six hours a day, causing physical and emotional health issues, as well as compromising privacy.

Isolation and financial loss have led to major increases in depression, anxiety, suicide, family violence and child abuse. The fear and isolation drive up suicide, violence at home, depression, and anxiety. The journal Lancet reported on October 24th, 2020 that overdose deaths are up globally more than 20 percent due to mental and physical lockdown trauma.

For younger children and the disabled it's even more devastating. Trauma experts are saying this may be the worst mass trauma humans have ever experienced, since it is worldwide and the end date is unclear.

Studies show that resistance to viruses increases, the more social and emotional commitments that people have, yet these are being cut back dramatically by mandates. And no lockdowns have ever helped eradicate a disease.

Meanwhile, the Great Barrington declaration — organized by three world-class scientists: Jay Bhattacharya of Stanford, Martin Kulldorf of Harvard, Sunetra Gupta of Oxford — proposes herd immunity as a way forward. Based on a large compilation of international research they are urgently calling for an end to draconian restrictions. "The most compassionate approach, that balances the risks and benefits of reaching herd immunity, is to allow those who are at minimal risk of death to live their lives normally to build up immunity to coronavirus through natural infection, while better protecting those who are at highest risk. We call this focused protection."

In the USA, nearly 80 percent of deaths attributed to COVID-19 have been people over 65, while over 40 percent were living in nursing homes. Protecting the vulnerable would clearly have a robust impact, without shutting down the rest of society.

The WHO recently acknowledged the mass destruction caused by lockdowns, and urged the world to stop them. Unfortunately, the USA's political-medical-media establishment did little to spread that advice, even though the WHO projected increased poverty, food insecurity, and disease as long as the lockdowns continue. Lockdowns are, WHO leaders emphasized, especially harmful in lesser-developed nations already caught in cycles of collective suffering.

When someone disagrees with the WHO's covid recommendations, they are increasingly censored. In fact, the WHO itself has called for unprecedented media censorship of any views that are different than the official narrative. Censorship has been twisted into protecting public health. However, it's not likely that the mass media and lockdown-promoting politicians will be censored for ignoring the WHO's passing acknowledgement of lockdown damage.

And if a report by any scientists who are not on Big Pharma's payroll starts to get traction, then mass media articles appear, as they did shortly after the Great Barrington Declaration was made, in this case calling herd immunity "dangerous" as it would supposedly lead to many thousands more deaths. Even though the approach recommended in the declaration has always worked in the past, even with severe pandemics.

Yet the WHO says trying to achieve herd immunity as it has always been done is dangerous and will lead to thousands more dying. They say only a vaccine can produce herd immunity, which the money trail reveals to be a conflict-of-interest. They seek to invert reality, since this is the first time the healthy have ever been quarantined (a new definition for "house arrest"). Protecting the vulnerable is the wise strategy, not shutting down the world.

Sweden, which did not lockdown, and Great Britain, which did a strict lockdown, have comparable disease and mortality statistics. The same was found by scientists in the USA comparing states. Stopping people from being human doesn't stop the virus from doing what it does.

In Japan, after some brief closures at the beginning, most of daily life has returned: shops, restaurants, bars, museums, cinemas, gyms, and schools are now mostly open, and internal travel restrictions have been lifted. Unlike the USA, no fear-based media propaganda has colored people's minds, so social conditions don't support political overreach. In Tokyo, there has been fierce resistance to any suggestion of mass lockdowns. As of early November, Japan has only had 1600 deaths attributed to covid, out of its 127 million people who are mostly living in densely-populated cities.

In Vietnam, with a large urban population of nearly 100 million, there are only 35 covid deaths so far. There were only some initial travel restrictions and brief local quarantines. The Vietnamese very effectively managed disease outbreaks much as they routinely deal with seasonal flu. The availability of universal healthcare, as in Japan and elsewhere, is part of the reason deaths are so low. Nonetheless, their numbers show that lockdowns are not needed.

The impact of lockdowns and restrictions is far worse than the virus could ever be, giving powerful financial interests and corrupt politicians a pretext to trigger global economic and social chaos. The fear-mongering by officials, and the extreme measures put in place, enabled by the panic, are moving in the direction of fascist totalitarian governments. In Germany and elsewhere, children have been taken away from their parents if they do not comply with quarantine, distance, and mask-wearing regulations.

Disregarding the actual science, governments worldwide — except Sweden, China, Japan, Vietnam, South Korea, and Belarus — are using the excuse of a "second wave" or "surge" to again mandate these horrific lockdowns.

How to Get the People to Go Along

In the UK and Scotland, their governments are breaking ethical guidelines by using applied behavioral psychology to amplify people's fear. The Scientific Pandemic Influenza Group on Behaviors advises these governments on how to get people to follow covid restrictions. In their article on the UK government website it states, "A substantial number of people still do not feel sufficiently personally threatened... The perceived level of personal threat needs to be increased among those who are complacent, using hard-hitting emotional messaging." Why? Because fear is the primary tool that makes people agree to follow politicians' unconstitutional, freedom-robbing mandates like universal mask wearing, business shut-downs and draconian stay-at-home orders.

The approach used in the UK and Scotland is actually based on a longstanding field of research within public health (including in the USA and many other nations) which is curiously called “fear appeal,” how to frighten people into complying with new restrictions on their behavior.

There are two steps in the fear appeal process. First, you need something that people are afraid of that makes them afraid personally. Second, you have to mandate behavior, so the people must immediately begin cooperating with your plans. For example: don't leave home; wear a mask; stay 6 feet apart; close down businesses, don't let your kids go to school... The American tradition of individuals and their own communities making decisions is overridden by today's public health practices which ignore our Constitution. It is assumed that what public health officials think is true, making public health easily usable by extreme totalitarianism.

The use of mainstream and social media, along with false fact-checking and censorship have been very effective so far in keeping most people afraid.

Medical Tyranny Is Marching

A recent law in England says government must have fingerprints and DNA of everyone who gets the covid test. It's called a national security matter no less. What do fingerprints have to do with the virus? By the way, everyone must receive the test.

And censorship is on the rise. All freedom is lost if free speech dies. Alternate treatments to the vaccine are slammed and repressed, as if they're obscene. Individuals and organizations that speak out on vaccine safety issues, like Children's Health Defense, are undergoing unprecedented censorship in both mainstream and social media. All content that questions government and industry claims about the safety and efficacy of vaccines is claimed to be “misinformation.”

New internet platforms (Bitchute, LBRY, Brighteon, Parler, Locals, MeWe etc.) not owned or operated by a Big Tech monopoly are forming to overcome the censorship. Though not yet as well known, these sites enable information sharing that honors free speech, data privacy and vital information for our health and safety that is censored by the monopolies.

Tyranny starts slowly, but then accelerates. As mentioned earlier, in Germany, for example, police repression is becoming routine after the passage of the Infection Protection Law which denies fundamental rights to oppose the government's poverty-triggering lockdown policies. People are being arrested for challenging lockdowns. Police recently broke into the home of Dr. Andreas Noack, a renowned chemist and arrested him while he was doing a livestream webinar.

People worldwide — still under the spell of the fearmongering media — are slowly being conditioned into a “new normal” of totalitarian rule by a carefully choreographed alternation between periods of a heightened sense of danger and panic, and periods when things seem to be slowly going back to normal. This dance between panic and relative calm convinces many people that this is a normal society with occasional disruptions, and they usually don't notice the gradual slide into totalitarianism.

The state of Victoria in Australia has a thick residue of bureaucracy remaining from the now lessened pandemic lockdown measures. What used to be a simple act, retrieving necessary materials from work, now involves a series of hoops to jump: a temperature check, checking in by smart phone with a health declaration, and clearance with security to ensure activation of relevant cards, as well as the lending of necessary keys.

A recent law enacted in Greece requires people to text the government for permission to leave home. In Italy, if someone breaks a red zone quarantine, they risk six years in prison.

On December 10, Jean-Bernard Fourtillan, a retired university professor in France known to be strongly opposed to mRNA vaccines, was forcibly placed in solitary confinement at the psychiatric hospital of Uzès by French law enforcement officers under military command.

“Quarantine camps” are being built in New Zealand to hold people against their will who test positive for COVID until they test negative. This is also happening in New Zealand, Canada and the USA (FEMA camps).

This nightmare will only end when we restore our fundamental freedoms. The public health authorities keep moving the goalposts to confuse and slowly break down any resistance. The fabled return to normal life keeps being pushed back.

Mass house arrest without court orders, widespread destruction of small businesses, restraints on public demonstrations, the censorship of dissent... Where does it stop?

At a rally in Toronto this October, constitutional lawyer Rocco Galati called out President Trudeau and Mayor Torrey.

Why are you advertising for crowd control officers for 2025? Why are you stockpiling teargas? Why are you preparing internment facilities? Why are you advertising for drone surveillance for 2030? What is your agenda Mr. Trudeau and Mr. Torrey in Toronto? You cannot have our constitutional rights under any circumstances! They belong to everybody here and not here!

You’ve tried to isolate me, distance me from my fellow humans, silence me with your slave trade masks, close down and lock down points of human contact. Now we are told to wear masks when having sex! do not tell me how to breathe, who to hug or kiss, who to make love with or how. We will not be stripped of our humanity! 100,000 doctors worldwide are now calling this pandemic fraudulent and the measures taken in response unwarranted. It is estimated that the measures have killed over 10 times more people than the depraved leaders proclaim covid to have killed. The World Foodbank suggests that 10% of the world population is risking starvation. Ten thousand additional children are already dying from starvation each month.

Alternate Treatments

And yet, as Jack Dresser, Ph.D. (retired psychologist and NIH-funded research scientist associated with Oregon Research Institute) wrote:

Vitamins C and D are effective for both prevention and treatment, and well-established anti-inflammatory drugs such as budesonide and Ivermectin have proven highly effective in preventing and reducing the immune system overreactions that account for respiratory distress and collateral organ damage. Simple antibiotics such as azithromycin prevent opportunistic bacterial pneumonia. These effective, inexpensive, well-established preventive and treatment protocols have been ignored by our public health establishment and its captive press.

Instead, newly minted vaccines promising massive Big Pharma development subsidies and projected profits have been relentlessly promoted as the only solution from the beginning.

Rescued by the “Vaccine”

The mass media has been terrorizing people to believe that highly-experimental, not-tested-on-animals, emergency-authorized (not approved), liability-free in the USA (leaving zero options for anyone who might be injured by them) “vaccines” are the only way back to normal.

Fortunately, in jurisdictions that do not provide liability immunity to pharmaceutical manufacturers, lawsuits are being introduced around the world.

Vaccine Liability

In 1986, the National Childhood Vaccine Injury Act became law. Being the largest lobbyist in Washington paid off bigtime for the pharmaceutical industry (Big Pharma) in this law which prohibits lawsuits over injuries caused by childhood vaccines — which have never been properly tested for safety — and are mandated by law to be injected into children. The law shifts the responsibility to pay for vaccine injuries to taxpayers. Since then, the number of mandated childhood vaccinations has skyrocketed in the USA.

Additional laws have eliminated liability for all vaccinations. With liability out of the way, vaccination, no matter how harmful to the public, is home free. “Vaccine hesitancy,” as it is called, is growing. Perhaps moving ahead at warp speed with something as potentially dangerous as a new type of vaccine is not wise.

The Trouble with COVID Vaccines

Dr. Fauci’s agency, the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases (NIAID), spent $2.5 billion on his leading vaccine candidate Moderna. NIAID owns the critical patents on the Moderna vaccine and will reportedly receive half the royalties. Curiously, Moderna’s former chair, Moncef Slaoui, is now the director of the government’s Operation Warp Speed to deliver the vaccines. Moderna also signed a contract that obligates the Pentagon to buy 500,000,000 vaccine doses for $9 billion. Why has the military been brought in to deliver these vaccines?

Celebrities are also being called in to counter “anti-vaxxers” and to shame people into getting the vaccine “for the common good, for your mother, for your grandmother.” Not to mention for those poor vaccine makers and others who have “trillions of dollars at stake.”

But do they really care about your grandmother? As CNN reported on December 4th, “The vote to recommend long-term care residents be among the first to receive Covid-19 vaccinations was not unanimous... a lone doctor said no.” Dr. Helen Talbot was concerned whether the vaccine would even work in such frail, vulnerable patients since it has not been tested on any. (No testing was done on children, adolescents or pregnant women either.)

Even more, Dr. Talbot worried about the effect on public perception of residents dying soon after getting the vaccine. So there is zero evidence the vaccine is safe or effective in the frail and elderly, and the public health experts we’re supposed to trust say the frail and elderly should be second in line, right after healthcare workers? I see.

Dr. Kelly Moore, associate director of the Immunization Action Coalition (which supports frontline workers who will administer Covid-19 vaccinations) said, “Since they [the COVID vaccines] haven’t been studied in people in those populations, we don’t know how well the vaccine will work for them. We know that most vaccines don’t work nearly as well in a frail elderly person as they would in someone who is fit and vigorous, even if they happen to be the same age.”

Dr. Moore also said, “We would not at all be surprised to see, coincidentally, vaccination happening and then having someone pass away a short time after they receive a vaccine, not because it has anything to do with the vaccination but just because that’s the place [a nursing home] where people at the end of their lives reside.”

And just to make extra sure Bill Gates meets his vaccination quota, recently the national-security states of the USA and UK quietly let it be known that the cyber tools and online tactics of their information warfare unit, previously created for use in the war on terror are being repurposed for use against “anti-vax propaganda” and counter Covid-19 narratives.

After having spent billions on these vaccines, the last thing both governments need is independent journalists who raise legitimate concerns over pharmaceutical industry corruption or the extreme secrecy around Operation Warp Speed and the CIA-linked contractor involved in getting those vaccines distributed.

Pfizer’s history of being fined $23 billion for illegal marketing off-label, and its bribing of government officials in Nigeria to help cover up an illegal drug trial that killed eleven children has missed the playlist of most mass media outlets. They also don’t mention that the head of the FDA's Center for Drug Evaluation and Research, Patrizia Cavazzoni, just happens to be the former Pfizer vice president for product safety who covered up the connection of their product Zoloft to birth defects.

The power of the state is policing online speech and deplatforming news websites to protect Pfizer and other scandal-ridden pharmaceutical giants as well as the interests of the US and UK national-security states.

Fear is being orchestrated through misrepresentation of data and the PCR test to keep the pandemic going and make people take a covid vaccine and give up their body autonomy.

To Vax or Not to Vax

Until the middle of the 20th century, mortality from infectious diseases was very high, and then they all suddenly dropped rapidly. The CDC did a comprehensive study with Johns Hopkins University in 2002 call the Guyer Study that was published in Pediatrics, a very pro-vaccine journal. The study discovered that the big drop in mortality had almost nothing to do with vaccines. Instead, they said it was due to better nutrition, improved sanitation, electric refrigeration, chlorinated water, sewage treatment plants, and a reduction in population densities. Unfortunately virologists took credit for what should have gone to the engineers.

EBio Medicine on March 17, 2019, published a study based on thirty years of data about the impact of the Diphtheria-Tetanus-Pertussis and Oral Polio vaccines on young infants in urban African communities. The study found that girls who were vaccinated had a ten times higher death rate than the unvaccinated. They were dying of upper respiratory infections, sepsis, dysentery and malaria. The vaccines ruined their immune systems.

A CDC study done in 1999 (kept on the Vaccine Safety Database) showed that children who received the Hepatitis B vaccine in their first thirty days, had an 1135% greater chance of getting autism than those who were unvaccinated. When the CDC saw those numbers, they decided not to publish this internal study. It was only found out by a Freedom of Information Act request.

The USA used to have the least chronic disease and the best health outcomes of an developed country, but is not last on the list. Autoimmune disease and allergies grew rapidly in the USA starting in 1989, the year the vaccination schedule exploded (since the law eliminating pharmaceutical companies' liability for their vaccines was passed in 1986). Children in the USA receive a total of 72 doses of 16 different vaccines, far more than any other country. And there are 270 more new vaccines in the pipeline.

In animal studies of coronavirus vaccines, which began in the early 2000s, there always seems to be a severe inflammatory autoimmune response from the creation of a class of antibodies that make the vaccinated sicker when they become exposed to the wild virus. The animals appear fine at first, with a robust immune response. But when they do the challenge (to expose or give the pathogen to the animal), which is only done on animal studies, their immune systems have a very high inflammatory response that makes the animals sicker and causes more deaths. (Since Big Pharma has total immunity from prosecution, they can just blame the response on COVID, since it is also a COVID symptom in severe cases.)

Mostly due to the severe inflammatory response, the FDA had yet to approve human use of a coronavirus vaccine. In addition, mRNA vaccines had never been approved for humans before either. But thanks to PR campaigns from the WHO and the WEF, the FDA decided that the threat of COVID is greater than the potential dangers of both coronavirus vaccines and highly experimental mRNA vaccines so they fast-tracked the COVID-19 mRNA vaccines. And they skipped the animal trials.

Newsweek gushed at rushing the Pfizer vaccine to market at the fastest pace in history. Yet how these vaccines became safe and effective for the first time in history under the less rigorous standards and testing protocol shortcuts that being fast-tracked at “warp speed” entails, remains a great mystery, as does the full recipe of ingredients in the vaccines.

Be aware that there is no recourse for anyone who is injured by the vaccine. All liability has been removed. The manufacturers still make all their money even if we’re injured or die from the vaccine.

The Pfizer and Moderna mRNA vaccines will fundamentally change people’s DNA, making us GMOs (genetically-modified organisms). Bill Gates says it will turn our cells into “vaccine-making factories.” The only reason the vaccine makers give for choosing this new type of vaccine is they can make, mass produce and distribute it quickly. Curiously, they also must store this new type of vaccine at an extremely low temperature, which complicates matters a bit.

Immediately following a surge in the price of Moderna stock (thanks to the signing of government contracts), Moderna’s CEO bailed out and sold all his stock in the company. And Pfizer’s CEO sold 62% of his Pfizer stock in a similar manner. Strange, isn’t it?

Is the mRNA Injection a Vaccine?

The mRNA injections of both Pfizer and Moderna are being issued under emergency authorization use. Neither one has received FDA approval; they are not licensed. People receiving these are experimental subjects who are told to download a cellphone app to use for reporting their reaction to the shot.

Both companies call their injection a “vaccine.” When people hear the word “vaccine,” they assume that it provides immunity to a specific disease, and it also prevents transmission of that disease to others. The CDC defines “vaccine” as “a product that stimulates a person’s immune system to produce immunity to a specific disease.” Neither company claims that. In fact, they said that they won’t test for that in clinical trials. When the companies say their “vaccine” is “95% effective,” people assume they mean in preventing getting sick and preventing transmission, but they mean effective at lessening symptoms only, if even that is true.

Moderna makes “gene therapy technology.” They began as a producer of chemo for cancer treatment. But you can’t mandate chemo for a disease you don’t have.

Both Pfizer and Moderna make a synthetic fragment of nucleic acid, not mRNA, embedded in a fat carrier. They say that this combo is injected into human cells — not to induce immunity from infection, or to block transmission — but rather to lessen symptoms associated with the S1 spike protein, not the virus itself. So by the companies’ own admission neither one is a vaccine.

Two Little Problems

The “primary endpoint” of trials on the so-called SARS-COV2 “vaccine” under Operation Warp Speed was “the prevention of symptomatic COVID-19 disease.” In February 2020, the CDC, WHO and Department of Health and Human Services made it clear that COVID-19 is a series of clinical symptoms (fever, muscle pain, aches, loss of smell, etc.). That has since been redefined as PIC (pneumonia, influenza, and COVID) making those COVID death numbers soar.

Big Pharma and their associated scientists tried to say that SARS-COV2 causes COVID-19, but there was a tiny problem. Most people who get a positive result for COVID with a PCR test had no clinical presentation, no symptoms. So they couldn’t make a causal statement. Well over 80% who test positive for one of the tiny fragments of what is called SARS-COV2 had no problem.

The primary endpoint for the trials was not a vaccine endpoint (stimulating immunity and blocking transmission), and neither of those were even measured.

Moderna stated “Key secondary endpoints including prevention of severe COVID-19 disease and prevention of infection by SARS-COV2.” But there’s a little problem. By their own admission, in the clinical study it was “impractical to measure infection.” So there is zero evidence in their phase three clinical trials that the gene therapy had anything to do with prevention of infection. That means their injection is not a vaccine, since it does not meet the gain of immunity requirement, or the transmission prevention requirement. Moderna's clinical trial was set up specifically so it could not measure either requirement. The New England Journal of Medicine in October 2020, and then the Lancet in December both agreed that "no existing vaccines have been shown to be effective against infection with any beta coronavirus, the family that includes SARS-COV2 which causes COVID-19."

Officials who tell the public that this injection prevents infection (with no data to support that contention) are violating the Federal Trade Commission Act by promoting a deceptive practice.

What would motivate Pfizer, Moderna, Fauci, Gates, and the rest to lie about it being a vaccine? As recently as 2018, Moderna insisted they were not making a vaccine, but were instead producing cutting-edge gene-therapy technology. But when the pandemic appeared, it suddenly became known as a "vaccine" company. Why? At this point, one can only conjecture. For one thing, if public health authorities called it "gene-therapy/chemo-therapy," no one would want to take it.

In addition, as long as the state of emergency is continued, under emergency use authorization rules, the companies have a legal liability shield for any "vaccine" injuries. So they can make billions of dollars with no concern about having to pay for injuries or deaths that their product causes. But if they didn't call it a vaccine, the liability shield would vanish, since there's no liability shield for gene therapy. By maintaining the illusion of a state of emergency (with high case numbers and death numbers due to use of a highly-flawed PCR "test") the many institutions involved maintain the illusion of the liability shield. However, there's no waiver of liability when deceptive practices are involved, even in a state of emergency. So perhaps the makers took the chance of calling it a vaccine because they think no one will independently investigate their claim.

As for Operation Warp Speed, the federal government's plan to rapidly deploy the "vaccines," there is a curious middleman involved in the action. A company known as ATI (a defense contractor in North Carolina) that clears billions of dollars of orders for vaccines is supposed to control the rollout of the COVID vaccines. ATI has another contract, also with the Department of Defense (and other government agencies) to officially manipulate public media and to spread government propaganda. This is the federal government violating its own laws about deceptive practices and medical claims. It is the violation of federal statutes perpetrated by a defense contractor and gene therapy companies to do experimental trials involving deceptive medical practice. They wouldn't play this game without the immunity shield provided by emergency use authorization.

And in case you think that getting one vaccine will be considered sufficient, here's what Dr. Fauci said about the mutations that are being reported. "This is a wake-up call to all of us. We will continue to see the evolution of mutants so we... will have to be nimble to be able to just adjust readily to make versions of the vaccine that actually are specifically directed towards whatever mutation is actually traveling at any given time."

The WHO's New Definition for Herd Immunity

Herd immunity is achieved when enough people in a community become immune to an infectious disease to prevent further wide and rapid spread. Before vaccines were introduced, all herd immunity happened because enough people were exposed to and recovered from an infectious disease. (Best practice included protecting only those most vulnerable.)

As vaccination spread, herd immunity included along with naturally-acquired immunity from prior illness, the temporary vaccine-acquired immunity that vaccination can induce.

In June 2020, the World Health Organization's (WHO) definition of herd immunity (on a Q and A page in their website) read as follows, "Herd immunity is the indirect protection from an infectious disease that happens when a population is immune either through vaccination or immunity developed through previous infection.”

But in October, 2020, the WHO (though not the CDC and other official organizations) changed their definition of herd immunity to “a concept used for vaccination” that no longer includes naturally-acquired immunity, as though history had somehow been altered. Here’s their new definition: “‘Herd immunity,’ also known as ‘population immunity,’ is a concept used for vaccination, in which a population can be protected from a certain virus if a threshold of vaccination is reached. Herd immunity is achieved by protecting people from a virus, not by exposing them to it.” Clearly, the WHO is determined, along with their top funder, Bill Gates, to vaccinate the world, even if it means turning science upside-down.

Yet immunity developed from exposure is how it has worked for as long as humans have existed. Our immune system is designed to respond to exposure, not to vaccines. Public health officials highlight that vaccination offers a chance to gain immunity without getting the disease. But they rarely mention that (in addition to the risks common to all vaccines) vaccine-induced immunity is not as long-lasting as exposure-induced immunity.

Artificially-induced vaccine-immunity is temporary and may require booster shots. Barbara Loe Fisher, co-founder and president of the National Vaccine Information Center, explains the problem using the example of measles: “What the medical literature shows is that baby boomers and the generation before us acquired natural immunity, which is qualitatively superior. It’s longer lasting than vaccine-acquired immunity.” It is still not known how to make vaccines exactly reproduce naturally-acquired immunity.

Another Reality Twist by the WHO

Another convenient WHO reality twist happened in June 2020. During a press briefing, Maria Van Kerkhove, the WHO’s technical lead for the COVID-19 pandemic, let the real science slip out when she clearly stated that people who have COVID-19 without any symptoms “rarely” transmit the disease to others.

In a dramatic backtrack one day later, on June 9, 2020, Dr. Mike Ryan, executive director of the WHO’s emergencies program, quickly dismissed her remarks, saying they were “misinterpreted or maybe we didn’t use the most elegant words to explain that.” So which was it, Dr. Ryan, the public’s misinterpretation of a simple remark or the use of inelegant words by “we”?

What Do Toxins have to do with It?

Dr. Zach Bush, a pioneer studying the impact of toxins on human health, has found that toxins in our body and in the environment empower normally benign viruses to do harm to human health. Scientific research over the last 20 years into the microbiome confirms this idea. The microbiome consists of the many bacteria, viruses, fungi, and other micro-organisms that exist on and throughout our body, outnumber our human cells, and are central to the multitude of metabolic functions our body performs which keep us alive. A healthy human body is teeming with the little buggers. Our brains have bacteria and fungi that nursemaid the central nervous system to health by detoxing and repairing our brain, for example.

Yet the standard medical model — germ theory, developed by Louis Pasteur — sees our adaptive immune system as being in conflict with the microbiome and always vulnerable to attack from viruses. However, microbiome research is proving that an alternative model — terrain (or cellular) theory, developed by Antoine Béchamp (a contemporary of Pasteur) — has much to offer. Terrain theory proposes that rather than genetic predisposition or attacking microbes, the condition of our body (how robust its health is) and our environment (whether it is toxic or not) determine if we contract a disease.

A terrain polluted with toxins can empower viruses and bacteria to function as pathogens, and a body with a weakened immune system is less able to regenerate after exposure to them.

The rate of chronic disease in the USA in 1940 was 6%, which is probably a good background rate for a population. However, two subsequent studies by the Department of Health and Human Services reported a major increase. The first one in 1986, found the rate of chronic disease had doubled to 12.8%, and the second in 2006, found a quadrupling of that rate to an astounding 54%.

What was going on? An increasing number of toxins were being dumped into our land, air and water. Glyphosate (the main ingredient of Roundup pesticide) was introduced in 1976, and by 1994 was all over our planet. Other candidates include PFAs in flame retardants; BPAs in canned food; as well as mercury, aluminum and other metals. In addition to synthetic chemicals, the impact of ultrasound and the EMFs of cellphones and such have toxic consequences. And the number of vaccines mandated for children went from three (in the 60s) to 72 doses, including 28 injected in newborns instead of waiting until they are two and have developed an immune system more capable of handling them. Any or all of those factors likely contributed to the dramatic rise in the USA's chronic disease rate.

If Dr. Fauci, who has been the director of the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases since 1984, had been doing what we pay him to do, he would have funded studies to determine what the causes of the epidemic in chronic disease are. Or he could have funded studies to determine why allergic diseases, went from affecting 1-in-2000-3000 to affecting 1-in-12 under his watch. Instead, he has incubated Big Pharma drugs, by funding studies, and then collects a portion of the patent on many of them. 100% of the drugs approved by the FDA from 2009-2016 went through his shop. Why is no one studying why over half of our kids are debilitated by lifetime chronic diseases?

Is COVID-19 Toxically-induced?

According to Dr. Bush, unlike every other viral condition known, COVID-19 does not cause people to expel mucus from their nose or tears from their eyes. Most of the change in physiology occurs in red blood cells, distorting their shape and causing hypoxic toxicity (low oxygen absorption). People are dying of hypoxic injury, not a viral infection. The respiratory epithelium is prone to injury from the lumpy red blood cells, which reduces oxygen-carrying capacity. This condition is also caused by cyanide poisoning. A few months before the "pandemic" was declared, members of Earth Justice (an environmental group that sues polluters) noticed that the cyanide levels were higher in the air of inner cities in the USA than had ever been measured. They sued the federal government for failure to post cyanide poisoning signs, but nothing came of it.

It turns out that SARS-COV2, the virus said to cause COVID-19, binds to carbon molecules in the atmosphere. A form of pollution called PM2.5 (particulate matter with a diameter less than 2.5 micrometers) carries cyanide. So the virus becomes a vector to transport cyanide into human cells. The vast majority of people get a mild flu-like illness (or nothing), but others get hypoxic injury from air pollution combined with the virus as a carrying agent. Dr. Bush reports that the toxicity is not from the virus, but from the junk it can carry into cells. People are dying from the environment our technology has poisoned.

The Great Reset

So where do the perpetrators wish to go with the COVID coup? The endgame was revealed in July, 2020, when the World Economic Forum (WEF) published a book called COVID-19: The Great Reset by WEF founder and director Klaus Schwab and Thierry Malleret. The Great Reset involves several major financial players (including the International Monetary Fund and the European Central Bank) in a worldwide project which would be carried out by cooperating state governments along with NGOs (non-governmental bodies). WEF, with significant links to privately owned mega-banks, mega-corporations, and the UN, appears to be leading the way.

WEF considers itself the king of "public-private partnerships." These partnerships seek to replace democracy with an unelected global governing body that dictates policy from the .0001% down to we the people. It's about transnational finance and corporations trying to control as much of our lives as they possibly can, including centrally controlled resource allocation for the entire planet.

Schwab's book calls the "legacy" of covid the "creator" of The Great Reset, which paints Big Tech as world savior in the aftermath of covid. However, it's really an attempt to complete the long-sought global takeover by the forces of financial and corporate monopoly. Right on cue, over the last few months, leaders in Germany, France, the UK, Spain, Canada, and the USA have been parroting the WEF rhetoric of "Building Back Better" and calling for a "Reset."

Schwab and Malleret assure us that there's no going back to the way we were, and the New Normal is here to stay, even though they admit that the virus was only ever "mild." "The societal upheaval unleashed by COVID-19 will last for years, and possibly generations," they declare.

"The pandemic represents a rare but narrow window of opportunity to reflect, reimagine, and reset our world to create a healthier, more equitable, and more prosperous future" writes Schwab, making their vision sound quite appealing. But it soon becomes clear that beneath the feel-good tone he is celebrating the pandemic as an opportunity to get around democratic accountability, minimize opposition, quicken their agenda and impose it on we the people.

And what is WEF's vision for the future? To steer society towards a pervasive and invasive technocratic society in the name of serving "the common good." They market fascism as a "New Deal for Nature" trying to make it sound appealing. WEF's three endlessly repeated mantras are: sustainability, equality, and inclusiveness. But it's merely clever gaslighting. Their "vision" is to totally centralize power, and to redistribute wealth from the working class to the technocrats.

To maintain the debt-based economic system, a minimum 3% growth rate is required to service the debt (pay the interest). The top dogs blame covid for the economic collapse, but most Western-style economies were well below the 3% minimum long before covid. Their solution is called "restructured downsizing." Big money sucks up the remains of bankrupt businesses for pennies on a dollar, the middle class disappears, and big corporations are all that's left standing. How's that for a vision?

Another part of their vision is to establish invasive technologies like contact tracing upon the population. In order to do so, Schwab says that people of the world will need to be made to realize it's all for the greater good and they should change their mindset to one that doesn't worry about "privacy and other issues," and to get more excited about "the potential to create value and improve lives." ("Value," by the way, is the new term for "profit.") Schwab has even stated, "We will have to stop objecting to businesses profiting from harnessing and selling information about every aspect of our personal lives." Will we?

The reset book uses fear appeal, "the Corona virus is spreading globally and sparing none... In one form or another, social- and physical-distancing measures are likely to persist after the pandemic itself subsides, justifying the decision... to accelerate automation... as societies emphasize the need to restructure the workplace in a way that minimizes close human contact." Really? And yet Schwab and Malleret admit that Covid-19 is "one of the least deadly pandemics the world has experienced over the last 2000 years", adding that "the consequences of COVID-19 in terms of health and mortality will be mild compared to previous pandemics... It does not constitute an existential threat, or a shock that will leave its imprint on the world's population for decades". So why does it give us a "window of opportunity" to drastically change society if it's just a mild disease?

It turns out that The Great Reset is a new name for a dreadful old idea. This is a marketing campaign to accelerate the worldwide adoption of the New World Order. It's the re-branding of technocracy. Great Reset = New World Order = Technocracy.

In the 1930s, the originators of technocracy defined it as "the science of social engineering." The idea is to scientifically engineer people into compliance to maintain central control, which is the purpose of a technocracy. Its key features are: control in the fewest hands possible, globalization on steroids (to extend control worldwide), and

Orwellian surveillance tech for “social transformation.”

Like every nefarious action the technocrats take, spying on the masses is justified as “protecting” us. It’s a world where we the people know nothing about those in control — who know everything about us. The owner of data controls the system, so data is more valuable to technocrats than anything else. Big Tech censorship — the end of our most fundamental freedom, freedom of speech — is a core method of this form of rule, as seen in the increasing censorship of any viewpoint online that contradicts the official narrative of covid.

The Great Reset is also being marketed as a new “social contract” — who knew we had an old one — that ties you to it through an electronic ID (with patents for eventual implants already secured) that is linked to your bank account and health records. A “social credit” ID (by Google) is also in the works that would dictate every facet of your life, like the one used in China, rewarding and punishing to achieve compliance. While it’s not really a contract, and nothing is written down, we the people will be expected to follow the new rules. Or as the World Economic Forum puts it, “If no one power can enforce order, our world will suffer from a ‘global order deficit.’” (I wonder if Big Pharma is working on a drug for that.) So free interaction between people is not acceptable? Do we really need “one power” to enforce their idea of order?

Under the “new normal” they wish to create with the Great Reset, the entire governmental structure will be under the control of powerful creditor institutions: a so-called public-private partnership under the auspices of the World Economic Forum, of course. Schwab says, “Establishing trust in the data and algorithms used to make decisions will be vital” — for they are the core of a technocratic “government.”

Human relations, WEF says, will be altered to minimize human contact thanks to covid. In a WEF video for kids, Grover of Sesame Street tells them about the new normal substitute for a play date that he now does with his friends. “We learned to have video play time which was a lot of fun and made us feel better.” Just do what Grover says kids, and you’ll “feel better.” This reset is about transforming all of society, including what it means to be human, how we live, work and interact with others.

In a technocracy, social transformation is accomplished through restricting fundamental freedoms, mass surveillance, and sacrificing entire economic sectors (through lockdowns and restrictions) to allow pharmaceutical, Big Tech, global chains, biotech and Big Agriculture to secure total monopolies and control. Artificial Intelligence (AI) and robots are envisioned to take over millions of jobs. Their plan is for most workers to stay home and get a monthly allowance from daddy government that’s barely enough to get by on, creating debilitating dependence. But they say we’ll be “happy.”

Hoping to complete the mission of the covid coup, the Great Reset attempts to create a total “bizarro” world where nothing is what it seems, deception on a mass scale. Co-opting popular phrases, the Great Reset sells stripping the right of ownership from we the people (saying we will rent everything) as “saving the planet” and “sustainable consumption”. Of course the billionaires and their cohorts don’t mention that they will own everything. In addition, their intention is to monetize and standardize human behavior and the operation of society. Being billionaires, they seek that and more: to actually own and control all of nature. This “control” includes geoengineering the atmosphere, genetically-modified soil microbes, and bio-synthesized fake food. You’ll love it!

The cold, calculated “vision” glowingly presented in The Great Reset, is an effort to wipeout thousands of years of culture and traditional practices, many of which involve our deep-rooted connection with the Earth. They wish to discredit ancient ways and wisdom so their dystopian transformation will be complete.

To top it off, WEF claims their plan to radically alter global food production and the human diet will reduce food scarcity, hunger and disease, and even reduce climate change. What would it look like? They’re talking farms without farmers, who are replaced by driverless machines and drone monitors using patented genetically modified seeds to produce commodity crops for industrial “biomatter” to be processed into a food-like substance. Bon appetite! If we allow our connection to nature to be fully severed, we would be left with lab-made “food,” total dependence on the “authorities,” and nothing meaningful or truly fulfilling to spend our days doing. That’s the total dehumanization waiting for a compliant humanity. None for me, thanks!

Schwab writes in Covid-19 : The Great Reset, “global food security will only be achieved if regulations on genetically modified foods are adapted to reflect the reality that gene editing offers a precise, efficient and safe method of improving crops.” Or at least a method of creating crops that can be patented to vastly increase profits.

Vandana Shiva, Ph.D., physicist, activist and author, sees through the ruse, “WEF is parading fake science... [F]or Mr. Schwab to promote these technologies as solutions proves that The Great Reset is about maintaining and empowering a corporate extraction machine and the private ownership of life.”

Shiva states that one of the aims of WEF’s partner organization, the EAT Forum, is “to replace wholesome nutritious foods with genetically modified lab creations” presented as being “healthy and sustainable.” As Shiva observes, “EAT’s proposed diet is not about nutrition at all, it’s about big business and it’s about a corporate takeover of the food system.”

Traditional local farmers are seen as competition with patented lab-grown food, patented GMOs, and, believe it or not, patented soils, which is why the covid response has hit farmers hard, forcing many to go out of business. It’s a great way to eliminate competition for the new “edible” products, and also to disrupt the traditional food supply chains, opening the door for more corporate domination.

EAT collaborates with almost 40 city governments in Africa, Europe, Asia, North and South America, and Australia, while also working closely with imitation meat companies like Impossible Foods (cofounded by Google, Jeff Bezos and Bill Gates). EAT is proposing the “Planetary Health Diet” they developed as the diet to replace all others. Shiva states that “EAT’s uniform global diet will be produced with western technology and agricultural chemicals. Forcing this onto sovereign nations by multinational lobbying is what I refer to as food imperialism.”

The technocrats even have a cure for the loneliness of social isolation: robots! CNN reported on March 25, 2020 that many uses for robots are being considered, now that people are supposed to generally avoid each other: deliver food, assist border controls, take temperatures in public areas and collect nasal and throat samples for testing, act as telemedicine assistants, monitor compliance with “voluntary” quarantines. And they’ve even thought of “social robots” to “monitor patients and make sure they adhere to treatments, but provide much-needed social interactions as well.” Isn’t that nice?

The technologies that will drive the Great Reset, and provide the infrastructure required to implement this bizarre technocracy, are collectively called the Fourth Industrial Revolution (4IR). That means smart cities and self-driving cars, all running on 5G. What’s more, 5G powers the Internet of Things made of sensors that would be embedded in most everything, enabling surveillance of all we do. The core technology and conduit of the 4IR is 5G-empowered smartphones. Giving up this modern form of enslavement is one way to help prevent fulfillment of the Great Reset.

Control of all humanity needs digital everything, including money, with the help of 5G, it can be done. They seek to require a digital identity tied to vaccination, or money you got none.

That’s why installing 5G was deemed essential work during the first wave of lockdown: it’s key to surveillance all over our planet, with tens of thousands of satellites and millions of cell towers emitting constant radiation.

5G's not mentioned in The Great Reset book, although it's so crucial to the brew they now cook, and this new radiation will cover our entire planet. Is it just me or is it odd that no safety studies by the industry were done yet?

One of the early ads for the Great Reset says, "You'll own nothing and you'll be happy. Whatever you want you'll rent and it'll be delivered by drone..." ordered online, and packaged by R2D2's cousin working in an Amazon warehouse. All to avoid viruses and bacteria, of course. It has nothing to do with the fact that human workers need to eat, use the restroom, take vacations, get sick, have to be paid, and so on, while robots don't. Other ads are intended to convince us that we don't need privacy, which they present as a dated ideal. It's so 20th century.

The wealthy are leaving cities as controlled demolition of the global economy due to lockdowns proceeds. It's the rollout of a global bio-security agenda, tyranny marketed to appear in our benefit "to keep us safe," for "the greater good." We're not supposed to notice the tyranny part, call it stealth tyranny.

The prophets of this "bizarro" world describe their plan to defeat democracy and destroy human dignity as a way to bring us back into harmony with Nature, frequently mentioning "sustainable" and "sustainability" as well as "inclusivity" to promote the illusion that this is a "green" movement, and a justice movement. However the green claim is invalidated by their support for geoengineering, which involves spraying toxic materials into our atmosphere, calling it "cool" and "life-saving."

It's curious that many of the "solutions" proposed by the now corporatized climate change movement overlap with the Great Reset's game plan. (The environmental movement was inspiring and honest when it started, but like most things that get big, it was hijacked when more funding was needed. This was quietly done, so the people on the ground don't know who their boss really is.) Which solutions overlap? Geoengineering (as mentioned above), 5G smart grids, and electric cars (they're not green at all). Massively increasing the amount of non-native electromagnetic radiation and building cell towers everywhere shows a complete disregard for our planet.

If carried out, the 4IR would complete the monetization of nature. The marketing about concern for biodiversity and such is a cover. The goal is to financialize nature and place the pieces on the block chain to keep track of it all. There are plans for such insanity as artificial forests and drone bees. Talk about green.

A new feature has emerged in the Great Reset iteration of technocracy, and that is — transhumanism: connecting humanity into a technological surveillance web overseen by self-evolving artificial intelligence (AI). As Vera Sharav, founder of Alliance for Human Research Protection said, "Whenever they want to fix the human race, watch out." Schwab states that "the fourth industrial revolution will lead to... a fusion of our physical, digital and biological identity." He clarifies in the book that he's referring to implantable microchips. That means becoming cyborgs that are joined with machines and AI. This is presented as a way to elevate human potential. However, in typical "bizarro" fashion, it actually would achieve the opposite — the subjugation of we the people to an ultra-wealthy oligarchy that seeks to organize and monetize its "assets" with greater efficiency. 4IR would place the robber barons between every human interaction, for which they would take a fee, and would have the power to approve or deny.

WEF proposes a shift from the current growth-based economic system to a resource-based system where "natural capital" replaces GDP (gross domestic product). Their new economics involves resource allocation based on artificial intelligence, digital surveillance and Big Data collection, along with digitizing industry and government, which allows social engineering and ruling to be automated. That would make elected representatives of the people unnecessary. Of course, then there would be no need for a constitution either.

In addition, a central bank digital currency (CBDC) will soon be offered to gradually replace all cash. The Federal Reserve's FedNow is a proposal for a system of instant payments and digital dollars. The instant payments are intended to reach every household including the unbanked. The plan is for everyone to have an account at FedNow. If adopted, unlike cash, the digital dollars would not be anonymous, but would instead be trackable. Initially, FedNow would be used for covid stimulus, and later tied to getting a vaccination and social credit.

While covid is being used as a justification for the Great Reset, that's simply a cover for a decades-old plan to monitor and control the world through surveillance (rebranded as "contact tracing") and fear. Self-appointed technocratic dictators are attempting this unprecedented power grab which seeks to reset the world to a more easily-controlled digital format. They wish to eliminate the middle class to complete the dismantling of democracy (already partially achieved by the first lockdown) and to eliminate national borders, while a group of unelected leaders rule from a distance.

Both the covid response and the Great Reset are marketed as promoting the public good. As effective propaganda always does, they take real issues and use them to trigger people emotionally who love fairness to comply with rules and to give up fundamental freedoms without a second thought. Some examples: the complete erosion of privacy that would occur if contact tracing became the norm, limiting all human activities to online meetings and such, AI-based law enforcement and pre-crime, the acceptance of which was setup by the "defund the police" meme. Education is being pushed online. Telemedicine is now a big thing. Add in making all money and payments digital, and we the people would leave a data trail of everything we do.

As for travel, on October 21st, TravelPulse posted a story on the app Common Pass. It would store your covid test results that airport scanners would read. If it showed a negative test result on you would go, but a positive one or no test at all would prevent boarding unless you took the test at the airport, since testing would be mandatory. The app may become mandatory as well.

According to TravelPulse, Cathy Pacific Airline of Hong Kong and United Airlines of the USA have begun trial runs. The rule-makers, in this case, the CDC and the World Travel and Tourism Council, would like to expand its use. The Commons Project Foundation, the Swiss "non-profit" co-launcher of the app is preparing to initiate many new routes in November and December across Asia, Africa, the Americas, Europe and the Middle East.

The World Economic Forum would like to see the app used for "safe" re-opening of international borders via all forms of transportation, calling it the best way to do covid testing. They also seek a vaccine record requirement for international travel.

In October 2020, WEF released a White Paper called, Resetting the Future of Work Agenda — in a Post-Covid World. It's about how to implement the Great Reset. A White Paper is not quite the final form, it's a trial balloon, to see how people react.

The paper is about where WEF would like to see humanity in 2030. Business? 84% digital or virtual/video conferences. 83% working remotely, with no human contact between colleagues. 50% of all tasks automated, requiring way less human input. Teaching? 42% of skill upgrading will be digitized, no human contact, all computer and artificial intelligence. Generally, WEF is looking for a significant portion of the workforce to be eliminated or automated.

The Great Reset also "envisions" a credit scheme of forgiving all personal debt in exchange for all personal assets. What could go wrong with that?

Communitarianism

Not only has the New World Order received a marketing makeover, authoritarians have as well. Their new name is communitarian. This is the philosophy behind 4IR, the UN, WEF, sustainable development, and agendas 21 and 2030.

Communitarian messaging dresses the authoritarian in liberal clothing. This very clever way of restricting individual human rights by justifying such as being for the “common good” enables a small minority of powerful stakeholders to enforce policy on the majority. It elevates the group over the individual, and a ruling class over the group.

Communitarianism turns definitions upside-down, making it fit right in with the “new normal” bizarre world. The mental and emotional spell created by the covid coup is accomplished by getting enough people to believe in the definition reversals they use to make the world seem opposite to what it actually is. It’s the communitarian way.

Here’s an example of this type of mass media messaging, “following guidance such as social distancing and wearing masks remains the most practical way to prevent transmission.” So if we wish to be practical and to prevent transmission to others in the community, we’ll follow the rules, even though they go against our human nature, even though anti-social distancing makes us fear being near other people, even though wearing a mask disguises faces so we no longer relate to each other, especially strangers, as fully human.

Mass media ads seek to redirect our thinking by re-minding us, “The mask feels funny on my face, but it’s important for me to stay safe. We can all wear masks together.” Notice how “we’re all in this together” has morphed into “We can all wear masks together.” This is massive indoctrination to get us used to being muzzled, kept apart, and obedient.

Billionaires place us in the global “community” while pretending to also be a part of that community. Of course the billionaires see themselves as above the community. They and their minions do not consider themselves a part of the “we” they use to achieve voluntary compliance.

Communitarians speak in vague, feel-good corporate language, using phrases and words with popular appeal, but intended with a secret, often opposite meaning. For example, “community” is not us and our neighbors, it’s a coalition of stakeholders: non-governmental organizations (NGOs), corporations, civil society organizations, nonprofit organizations, social movement organizations and government. The fancy term for this is public-private partnerships, which is basically the definition of fascism, where the government’s public policy is dictated by private corporations. These “partnerships” hope to dictate and regulate everything they possibly can that happens in the world. Talk about control freaks.

In communitarianism, individuals have no influence, and are assumed to be in agreement with the group. Decisions are not made by government, but are developed by the unelected “community” of the stakeholders coalition.

On mass media, “community” is also used as the big “we,” which many people assume to mean “all of us.” But the top dogs understand it to mean “everyone but them” when it comes to following the ever-changing “public health” rules, for example. That use of “community” is for telling we the people how we “should” live, which includes willingly restricting individual rights and liberties for the “common good.” Belief that social behavior should be regulated allows a small group to have power over others. Then what matters is what the “community” thinks, and counter ideas are rejected without consideration.

Those without the stakeholder coalition’s backing can be deplatformed and silenced by a few decision-makers to be publicly shamed and ostracized as heretics.

We the people are being tested to see how far we will go along with restrictions on our freedom, and with new behavioral requirements. Unless we stop this insanity, the data on how we respond, which is being gathered and analyzed, will be used to counter our responses to future mandates ever more effectively.

Indeed, unless we challenge the “new normal,” liberties and rights will be gone. A small group is promoting a criminal narrative leading us along a path to their final solution of total control. If allowed to continue a next step might be government asserting the right to remove your child from your home, calling it good for the community.

Media repeats the covid lies so often, and so many officials around the world agree, that they are difficult to question. Public shaming is used to control behavior. “Is this trip essential?” Confusion is created by the lack of sense in conflicting public directives.

The last several months have partially been about reprogramming us from being an individual to being a member of a group with beliefs reinforced by an echo chamber. Echo chambers are great at shrinking tolerance of other groups, and promoting conflict.

The fake community seeks to break trust, starting with the individual’s self-trust. A trust-building real community with diverse commerce and ideas, and open dialogue would thrive beyond the control envisioned by the oppressive system that seeks to end freedom.

The communitarians’ goal is oppressing we the people into slavery through coercion, trauma, gaslighting and threats. The society they are trying to push us into would have massive surveillance to control and financialize everything, would crush individuality, and would leave policing to private security, plus snitching on neighbors and those we love, and of course, robots. Instead of a community of neighbors with a common goal, they seek to dictate by herd mentality and peer pressure with initiatives and programs issued from above. It’s a totalitarian nightmare disguised as the kind of society we would like to live in. Quite clever!

From Homeland Security to Biosecurity

When the Soviet scare ended, symbolized by the fall of the Berlin Wall in 1989, a new enemy was needed to justify keeping those massive military contracts rolling. Enemies are often used by governments to justify security measures, surveillance, and curtailing civil rights as well. When enough of we the people are unified in fear of an enemy, then government replaces our civil rights with security measures, and we become easy to manipulate. Terrorism became the new enemy, birthing the Department of Homeland Security (DHS) and 9/11’s mantra, “nothing will ever be the same again.”

And so began a now old “new normal” of international relations and domestic affairs, with DHS and militarized police at home, while overt and covert operations “reshaped” the Middle East. Airport security became a federal “responsibility.” And the primary function of the FBI shifted from law enforcement to national security.

The covid coup finds the WHO pushing us to stick to a new normal of appropriate masking, social distancing, and knowing where this virus is every day. The shift is from a war on terror to a war on the asymptomatic carrier. Covid screening tools are simply upgrades of 9/11 security tools.

Clear, born out of 9/11, is a “public-private partnership leveraging innovation to enhance homeland security and delight customers,” that recently launched Health Pass. Clear’s CEO Caryn Seidman Becker explains, “Just like screening was changed post-9/11, in a post-COVID environment you’re going to see screening and public safety significantly shift, but this time it’s beyond airports, right? It’s sports stadiums, retail, office buildings, restaurants. While we started with travel, we’re a bio-medically secure identity platform... With the launch of Clear Health Pass, attach your identity to your covid-related health insights for your employers, employees, and for customers. Everybody want to know that each other is safe. We’ll start to re-open businesses and get America moving.”

The term “biosecurity” began to be used in reference to viruses during the Anthrax scare. The Model State Emergency Health Powers Act was passed in 2001 in many states that gave governors the power to forcibly quarantine and to force vaccinations in the event of a declared public health emergency. Biosecurity uses presumed threats to public health to curtail civil liberties.

Drones have been used in Australia to catch people not wearing a mask, or cars “too far from home.” This nightmarish police state, that is slowly showing in several countries, built on the back of covid, is intended to last. It’s part of the “new” form of governance that relies on a perceived sense of crisis to justify constant surveillance of the public and new powers to limit travel of anyone deemed a health risk.

The USA took another legal step toward that new form of government in December 2006 when The Pandemic and All Hazards Preparedness Act became law, expanding both the Health and Human Services Department and federal power in public health emergencies.

Then in 2009 (three months before Gates announced the Decade of Vaccines in January 2010), the USA quietly passed the Global Health Security Agenda (GHSA). This game-changing law slipped in under the radar, and dramatically changed how the federal government acts.

The GHSA declared a global war on microbes, to replace the worn thin global war on terrorism which had lost the power to trigger fear. To achieve this end, the new agenda declared that all agencies of government and all institutions of civil society (including media, social media, the press, medical industries, the banking system, and digital systems, will be directed to combat global pandemics.

So the centerpiece of the USA's foreign policy became this biosecurity agenda, completing what had begun during the Anthrax scare. This meant monitoring microbes worldwide, increasing immunization, developing a security force to ensure public safety, and building the international institutions required to orchestrate a global response to pandemics caused by novel microbes. Microbes supply a potentially never-ending supply of enemies because they mutate, allowing governments to operate using emergency powers, while shutting down democracy.

In 2011, the annual renewal of the National Defense Authorization Act included a new section that granted the President authority to suspend habeas corpus (the right to appear before a judge to hear the charges brought against someone) if the President decides that someone is a terrorist. That means someone who is declared to be a terrorist can be incarcerated without due process of law.

And now we've gone from 911's hateful foreign invader terrorist to COVID's asymptomatic carriers possessed by a pathogen, who could be anyone. The agents to protect us now are "frontline hero" doctors and nurses who use the tools of the technocrats to protect us from the invisible enemy that may be lurking within us. How clever to use doctors and nurses unknowingly to do the coalition's dirty work.

At the Bloomberg New Economy Forum in November 2020 Peter Daszak of EcoHealth Alliance spoke about potential emerging viruses as a national security threat to be tracked like terrorist threats. After 9/11, the government "tracked every single phone call coming into the U.S., a pretty revolutionary piece of surveillance," Daszak said. "Why aren't we doing that with pandemics?"

As the war on terror was really a war on the public (a pretext to increase surveillance and decrease freedom), so the war on the virus is a furthering of the war on the people, this time in the name of public health.

Civil Disobedience

Freedoms lost to a government have yet to be returned willingly. Unless all who care about returning power to we the people rise up and reclaim our inalienable rights and freedoms through non-violent civil disobedience, they will be gone.

And yet so many seem to believe in "compliance," which is understandable, given the well-orchestrated, worldwide, high-tech fear campaign that has been raging since March 11th. Like Germany in the 40s, the USSR in the 50s, and China in the 60s, only this time it's worldwide, the covid coup is about surrendering not only our rights and freedom, but also our body sovereignty, and possibly our lives. If we lose this one, only friendly ETs could rescue we the people, and there's no place to run or hide. Now is the time to awaken and stand up for freedom. Politicians and institutional leaders need to take public stands that powerfully expose the technocratic authoritarians and their psychopathic drive for absolute control in every aspect of our lives.

How long will we put up with this madness? Who really wants to go through life with a covered face, afraid to hug or kiss a stranger and even members of one's own family ever again? Who really wants to be dehumanized and controlled? And now after saying for months that the only road back to normal is getting the vaccine, "health experts" say we must keep that mask on our face even after getting the vaccine.

By keeping us apart and hiding our face, our right to assembly gone, kept in our place, and declaring us all biohazards, this unelected power play is manufactured, and our health freedom shattered.

Let no emergency suspend a nation's constitution, for none justifies removing each individual's inalienable freedom. People will do what is right, if given the truth. No corrupt boss required.

We must not allow unelected public health "officials" and political opportunists to decide if we can show our face, or to otherwise rule over us, rather than to serve the public. We the people must be prepared to restore our liberty.

It's crucial to focus on relating with, and educating the police, military, teachers and medical personnel about how they will be used by the global power club (and their local reps). And remind them that as human beings, it's time we all stand up for a free humanity.

Our challenge is to live the vision of a free humanity. Creativity and profound love for each other will somehow open the way. It's up to us to build a world that we'll prize. Time to arise for the common good that includes the individual good.

The children have to suffer the most. With fear of friends they're forcefully dosed, humanity hid behind partitions. What kind of kids will come from these conditions of division? Free the children to grow up in community.

On their own, the global greedheads directing the puppet governments would keep the state of emergency going as long as a sufficient number of we the people believe it. Fortunately, we still have the ability to peacefully educate friends and neighbors, and to insist that our elected officials reverse course. We must all do what we can with these peaceful tools to prevent the arrival of an authoritarian "dark winter."

Some possible actions to consider:

- 1 - Deliver Notices of Liability and Dishonor (Common Law technique for holding perpetrators accountable and preventing their destructive acts.)
- 2 - Protest in huge critical mass actions.
- 3 - Join with others to protect local businesses.
- 4 - Divest, boycott and sue.
- 5 - Expose corrupt politicians.
- 6 - Educate local sheriffs and police officers to stop enforcing covid tyranny.

Let us stand against medical tyranny, and for health freedom! Let us restore and protect fundamental freedoms, as well as human individuality and dignity. Connecting in community we will find our way.

Severe Impacts of Government Actions

In "The Corona Crisis: The Conspiracy Is Obvious. Here are Facts to Construct a Theory," Jack Dresser wrote:

Considering the severe impacts of government actions upon employment, small businesses, public mental health, opportunities for vulture capitalism transferring massive assets from everyday citizens to multinational banks, massive corporations and the wealthiest citizens through the deceptive CARES Act, We the People are owed a thorough and fully independent investigation of this economically catastrophic management of a perceived public health threat amplified by alarmist reporting before necessary facts were available.

Legal Action

Anti-covid measures have caused, and continue to cause, such devastating damage to the health and economy of the world's population that they are crimes against humanity, as defined in section 7 of the International Criminal Code.

Who would we charge for this heinous crime? The WHO is certainly a good place to start, followed by other co-opted UN agencies, like UNICEF, the World Trade Organization, World Bank, and International Monetary Fund. And who could forget the WEF and Bill Gates? Then there are the politicians who grabbed power when they saw a chance. And the CDC and other public health agencies in on the project. Oh yeah, and Big Pharma and Big Tech. The criminal trial, like the crime itself, will be profoundly unprecedented. Something planetary will be required.

Gates has blood on his hands in the Third World. In India an investigation committee found that thousands of girls, whose families were illiterate, were maimed by his vaccine trials, conducted without the informed consent of thousands of children or their families.

Neither the girls, nor their families, could read or write, and their thumbprints were used as signatures for consent for vaccine trials they did not understand. This was in violation of that principles established at the Nuremberg Trials, following the trial of the Nazi doctor Josef Mengele, that no experiments could be conducted on a person without their fully informed consent. Gates could be prosecuted on these grounds alone, by any duly sworn prosecutor in any nation that signed the Geneva Conventions.

Sounds like the largest class-action lawsuit in history, against all those responsible for the global lockdowns, from local policy makers to the World Health Organization and all the rest. And that is exactly what the four attorneys who founded the German Corona Extra-Parliamentary Inquiry Committee are working on. They are leading a tort case that calls the COVID-19 pandemic "probably the greatest crime against humanity ever committed."

The Inquiry Committee states that the pandemic has been fraudulently used as a means for wealth transfer and elimination of basic human rights. For example, the USA's 651 billionaires watched their collective wealth explode by over $1 trillion since the beginning of the COVID-19 pandemic to a total of $4 trillion as of December 2020.

Combine trillions of dollars pumped by institutional investors into Wall Street and the City of London, insider trading, ongoing manipulation by central banks of the international financial markets, and a growing reliance due to lockdowns on online big box stores like Jeff Bezos' Amazon (which is gobbling up the businesses of many now-bankrupt retailers) and the Walton family's Walmart, and you have some idea of how that happened.

Industries which pay most of humanity's paychecks are barely hanging on. This includes agriculture, manufacturing, mom-and-pop stores, restaurants and hotels, movie theaters and ballparks, travel, tourism, transportation, and other service-sector businesses. These small and medium-sized enterprises are being bought at bargain basement prices or simply eliminated by multi-billionaire creditors. We are witnessing the biggest redistribution of wealth in human history.

The perpetrators of this criminal conspiracy must be held accountable, in a court of law. Until then, when possible, peaceful non-compliance or peaceful civil disobedience is recommended in response to any unlawful and unjustified mandates.

Tyranny is being offered to us in the name of serving the common good. Instead let us shutdown fear, and move to love and freedom.

Optimizing Immunity

Here is a good introduction to this key factor in maintaining health from Dr. Mercola:

For thousands of years, the human body has been exposed daily to moisture and droplets containing infectious microorganisms (viruses, bacteria and fungi). The penetration of these microorganisms is prevented by an advanced defense mechanism — the immune system. A strong immune system relies on normal daily exposure to these microbial influences. Overly hygienic measures have a detrimental effect on our immunity. Only people with a weak or faulty immune system should be protected by extensive hygiene or social distancing.

Strengthening natural immunity is a much more logical approach. Prevention is an important, insufficiently highlighted pillar: healthy, full-fledged nutrition, exercise in fresh air without a mask, stress reduction and nourishing emotional and social contacts.

Growing our own food to nourish and heal our body through nutritional choices is a powerful way to optimize immunity. Eating chaga and other medicinal mushrooms is one effective option. It's astonishing how rapidly our bodies regenerate when given nutrition and conditions that optimize health.

For example, at a school in Hawaii, where all the students were pre-diabetic, they integrated a regenerative farm into the curriculum. This meant that the students got to have organic vegetables for one meal a day, and worked outside in the garden. Three months later, every student had reversed their condition. Human resilience becomes fully robust when we align with natural principles.

Decentralizing the food system, with every neighborhood growing their own nutrient-dense, regenerative veggies means fresher, better tasting food, and more connection with our natural roots. Nature's template for robust life is adaptation and biodiversity.

Dream Ourselves Awake Together

Since we now know that humanity can connect planetwide and take collective action within a few days, imagine what would happen if instead of obeying orders from representatives of transnational tyrants disguised as public health officials and caring politicians, we freely collaborated on universally beneficial scientific breakthroughs and ways to optimize health and prosperity for all. For that to become our better normal, profit must move to second place, after wellbeing, on our priority list.

The multiple layers of fear that the mainstream media conjures and daily dumps on our precious planet begin to fade once we awaken from the trance that fear festers in our heart and mind. We were born to find the courage calling within us. This is for our grandchildren, for the future of our species. This is the showdown between tyranny and freedom. Will we the people allow corrupt and psychopathic authoritarians (pretending to be public servants) to totally subjugate us, and tell us what we can and cannot do in every area of our lives?

The strange tale we are now living is oddly similar to the Twilight Zone's brilliant episode called "To Serve Man." In the story, aliens land in a spaceship, and give a book to the people of Earth. Several linguists form a team and begin to translate the text. They get very excited when they figure out that the title means, "To Serve Man." So when the aliens offer the Earthlings a super-fantastical sightseeing tour of their distant planet, "to demonstrate their good intentions," mobs of people line up to get on the spaceship and ride through the stars for the adventure of a lifetime. (That's kind of like people eagerly lining up for a COVID injection without questioning what's in the "emergency authorized" but not "approved" medical intervention that is said to serve human health.)

When the linguists finally realized what the book itself was about, they quickly ran to where the spaceships were taking off and shouted out to a friend who was boarding one of the spaceships, "The book, To Serve Man... it's a cookbook."

Or in the COVID variation of the tale: When the researchers finally realized that the World Economic Forum's plan makes powerless victims out of all who believe it was catalyzed by a virus and is intended to serve humanity, they shouted, "The book, Covid-19: The Great Reset... it's a "schnookbook".

While some have yet to feel the growing presence of tyranny, others are throwing off oppression, and finding their inner hero. While some miss the ruse and accept the exchange of freedom for total control disguised as security, others are discovering a deeper, more fulfilling identity that has long been waiting within. While some are ready to release most or all direct and intimate connection with other humans, others are fully embracing the nourishing human bonds that keep us healthy and unite us.

Today is the day to protect and strengthen freedom and full human living for all of us and for future generations. We recognize the greedy hand of deception. Yet leaving anger behind, we creatively move the dream forward, forming a finer future of justice, cooperation, and peace. In solidarity we transform the would-be global lockstep into individual and national sovereignty. As we heal ourselves, humanity and the Earth, we the people will birth a regenerative and free planetary civilization. Nothing can stop the awakening of humanity!
